Trucker Recants Story Of Slaying

Says Doesn't Remember Telling Police He Thought He Killed Coed

LONG BEACH, Calif. (INS)—A 31-year-old former truck driver Monday recanted his admission that he was "convinced" he was the slayer of an Omaha University coed.

Gerald Allen English told officers, who were already skeptical of his confession, that he "doesn't remember making a statement" in which he said he believed he killed Carolyn Marie Nevins, 20, on the university campus last Dec. 10.

English walked into the Long Beach police station Sunday to make the confession, but Capt. Lorin Q. Martin said English told him Monday that he had been drinking at the time.

Martin quoted English as saying: "It's a lie. I don't know anything about it."

English was kept in jail pending further word from Omaha police, who were reported to be sending an officer here to question the suspect.

But discrepancies in English's story of the killing already had indicated to local police that he might be suffering from a delusion.

Two angles to his story tended to discredit it. A check of records in Omaha disclosed that English was admitted to a hospital there several hours before Miss Nevins' body was found on the snow-covered Omaha University campus.

And English told police here he "believed" he had slain Miss Nevins shortly after he returned from a truck run to Wichita.

Records of the firm for which he worked in Omaha, however, did not indicate English had made any out-of-town runs around the time that the coed's body was found.

English, who came to Long Beach two months ago and was living with his mother, Mrs. LaVerne Johnson, surrendered Sunday and told officers:

"My nerves have been tormenting me. I've been unable to sleep. There is something on my conscience. I'm convinced I'm the murderer."

But he was vague about details of the slaying and said he suffered a mental blackout during which he believed he shot the girl.

British bomber chief, Air Marshal Sir Harry Broadhurst and pilot Donald Howard—made last-second escapes as their ejector seats hurled them through the cabin roof.

After an investigation, a spokesman for the Hawker-Siddeley group and A. V. Roe, makers of the Vulcan, said parts of the undercarriage were found in a plowed field several hundred yards in front of the runway outside the airport fence.

This, the spokesman said, indicated the aircraft touched down in advance of the concrete runway and the undercarriage was ripped off.

The Hawker spokesman said the pilot was coming in to land on a ground control approach—"a very normal procedure in bad weather."

Broadhurst, 50, was acting as copilot to Squadron Leader Howard, 33, on this proving flight of one of the world's mightiest warplanes. They suffered only minor shock as parachutes eased them 300 feet to the ground.

The crash was only a few hundred yards in front of a welcoming committee of high government and Royal Air Force brass, airport personnel and a party of Russians at the airport waiting to meet the Bolshoi Ballet.

They gazed horror-struck as the Vulcan—latest and biggest of Britain's A-bomb fleet—suddenly appeared out of control only a few feet above the ground.

Two loud bangs signalled the ejector seats sending out the two survivors, then the plane smashed into the ground.

The Vulcan was returning from a test flight to Australia and New Zealand. On the outward flight it had spanned the 11,475 miles from London to Melbourne in just over 47 hours, at an average of over 500 miles an hour.

Another Clear, Dry Day Seen

Another rainless day is in prospect for Nebraska Tuesday.

It will, however, be slightly cooler in the southeast.

Lincoln snagged high temperature honors Monday with a top of 88. Lincoln Air Force Base and Omaha trailed by a single degree.

In the cooler part of the state, Sidney had the lowest maximum temperature with 76. North Platte's 47 was the overnight minimum in the state.

Charges Planned Soon In Shooting

Officials Say Man Admits Firing Shots At Beauty Operator In Bar

By DEL HARDING
Star Staff Writer

Charges will probably be filed Tuesday against a 29-year-old Lincoln man being held in the shooting of Mrs. Lillian M. Suckstorf, 39, of 2629 No. 48th.

Chief Joseph Carroll and Capt. Paul Beave of Lincoln Police said Roger Vigil, a hairdresser, also of 2629 No. 48th, signed a three-page statement Monday night admitting the shooting after attempting suicide in his cell by slashing himself with a broken spoon.

A beauty operator at Gold's department store, Mrs. Suckstorf was shot five times—in the head, left arm and three times in the chest—about 12:30 p.m. Monday at the Tick Tock Bar, 1036 P. She was listed in critical condition at a local hospital where she had been given several blood transfusions.

Carroll said Vigil was found lying on the floor of his cell at 4:20 p.m. with "four or five gashes on each arm and several gashes on his chest."

Dr. Robert Stein, Lincoln psychiatrist, at headquarters at the time to interview the suspect, gave immediate emergency first aid.

Gashes Not Deep

"The gashes were not deep enough to necessitate stitches," Carroll said.

The hairdresser was accompanied to the health department for an iodine and bandage treatment and walked unassisted.

He was returned to his cell, apart from other prisoners, after the broken spoon had been recovered by police.

The argument that brought on the shooting, Carroll said, according to Vigil's statement, was over his cashing a rehabilitation check and his failing to attend beauty school Monday.

Carroll related that Vigil stated he was to have met her at a local cafe but called her to meet him at the tavern.

Bought Gun

After the call, Vigil stated before Carroll, he bought the gun about 11:30 a.m. at a local pawn shop. He then bought bullets for the gun at a local department store.

The police chief related that Vigil stated after the shooting he thought about shooting himself.

He reloaded the gun after he shot her, Carroll said Vigil stated, with the intention of shooting himself.

The gun was loaded when the man was apprehended by Detective Harry Davis on building stairs, Carroll said.

Vigil stated before Carroll, the latter said, that he had drunk several beers at another tavern and drank some more at the tavern where the shooting took place.

Witnesses gave this account of the shooting:

The man later identified as Vigil came into the bar about noon Monday. He had been "in and out" several times earlier in the day.

Mrs. Suckstorf came in about 12:25 p.m., sat down beside Vigil and ordered a hot dog and root beer. Vigil was drinking a glass of beer.

Suddenly Fired

They began talking quietly with each other. Suddenly they both arose and Vigil fired five 22-caliber bullets at Mrs. Suckstorf from close range. She fell flat on her face. Vigil turned, and gun in hand, walked out of the bar.

Bartender Harry Cheever of 436 No. 27th said he ran to Mrs. Suckstorf and rolled her over. Cheever said she moaned "My God, man, help me!" He telephoned police and an ambulance.

Vigil was apprehended on the stairs leading into a rooming house at 244 No. 10th by Police Det. Harry Davis. Vigil had been seen running down an alley towards the building.

Davis said he approached Vigil and said "I guess you're the man I'm looking for." Davis said Vigil replied "Yes, I am," and pulled his gun from his pocket and handed it to the detective.

Davis said Vigil had reloaded his "Eig" revolver and had 43 unfired bullets in his possession.

Mrs. Fern Long of 2335 R, a friend of Mrs. Suckstorf, said Mrs. Suckstorf is the divorced mother of four children. Two daughters, age 9 and 13, live at home, she said, one son is with the Army in Germany and a married daughter lives at Seward. Mrs. Suckstorf's former husband lives in Omaha.

Vigil according to Chief Carroll was discharged from the penal institution at Rawlins, Wyo. in 1954, after serving a two to three year sentence for robbery.

JAPANESE DEADLOCK ON BEAUTIFUL GIRLS

TAKAMATSU, Japan (P)—Members of the Chamber of Tourist Industry agree beautiful girls should be hired as guides to boom business. But there deadlock begins.

One faction wants to advertise beautiful guides "willing to accompany you to the remotest corner of the prefecture." Ruinous advertising, barks the other faction. With that kinds of sales talk "wives and sweethearts will never allow their men to visit our beautiful land."

Suspect Jailed

Without naming him, Eisenhower described Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, as an "apparently confused candidate who wants to return to the 'zig-zag, directionless road of trial and error' government."

Greeted here by thousands who gathered at the airport and lined the streets over which his motor caravan travelled to a downtown hotel, Eisenhower filled the University of Kentucky's 15,000-seat basketball coliseum. About 5,000 persons who couldn't get in gathered in a nearby football field to listen to him on loud speakers.

Eisenhower ripped into Stevenson and the Democrats for what he said was their desire to "revert now to the unsound, inflationary, anti-business, heavy tax, heavy spending, government interference, centralized control policies" of former administrations.

Own Bread

In contrast, the Republican nominee said if he has four more years in the White House, "I can see an America in which every man can eat his own bread in peace, raise his own family in security and strengthen his own mind and spirit in dignity."

"This will be an America where there are more than 70 million jobs at good wages," he declared.

Much as former President Harry S. Truman did in 1948, Eisenhower turned on White House heat against Congress. This time it is a Democratic-controlled Congress, instead of 1948's GOP-dominated session, that felt the scorch of presidential condemnation.

'Unfinished'

Eisenhower said that Congress left a lot of "unfinished business" to which, he added, "I shall return" in a second term.

Specifically, he blamed the Democrats for Congress' failure to act on federal school aid, help for local unemployment areas, expansion of minimum wage coverage, occupational therapy assistance and "further help to small business."

First To Plane

He got a surprise when Democratic Gov. A. B. Chandler was the first to greet him when his plane, Columbine III, touched the ground.

As he came off the plane, Eisenhower exclaimed to John Sherman Cooper, former ambassador and now a GOP candidate for the Senate, "hello, John."

Then the President saw Chandler, standing with outstretched hand.

"Why, hello, governor," he said. "It's awfully good of you to come out. Thank you for coming out."

Chandler told reporters he and the President were "old friends" and he thought it was a courtesy due the President to turn out for his arrival.

Asked if Eisenhower's visit to Kentucky would hurt the Democratic ticket's chances in November, Chandler replied with a grin: "Well, it won't do any good. He (Eisenhower) will get a lot of votes in Kentucky."

With Vim

Eisenhower sailed into the Democrats with a vim in both his Cleveland and Lexington speeches.

In Cleveland he said that while peace that exists is not all that anyone could wish, he resents the "anguished cry of some politicians"—palpably meaning Stevenson—that there is no peace.

"Do they think they can make America's parents and wives believe that their sons and husbands are being shot at?" he demanded.

Cooper said in introducing Eisenhower to the Lexington audience that while some serve peace "chiefly with words," Eisenhower has "demonstrated throughout the past four years that he understands the means and possesses the resources which have made peace more certain."

Today's Chuckle

Two children were standing on a corner waiting for the light to change.

Cars were driving through red lights and stop signs, double parking, and weaving in and out of traffic lanes. Said one boy to the other: "What do you want to be—if you grow up?"

Water, Fire Agreements

Board members, in refusing the applications, stated that the City of Lincoln might withdraw its short term water agreement and refuse further voluntary fire protection to West Lincoln if the applications were approved.

Board member Brown said "the city doesn't want to give us a water contract and they won't tell us why."

Chairman Way said "the city wouldn't shut water off right away, but they would probably give us time to drill our own wells."

Board members also said the increased traffic that would be caused by granting liquor by the drink would be too much for one town marshal.

Can't Afford Lawman

"We can't afford to pay for more than one marshal," Brown said.

Billy Pegram, owner of the Ranch House, presented most of the argument for the applicants, because with his application presented first and rejected the other applicants believed the issue decided.

Pegram argued that:

1. The City of Lincoln would not shut off water to West Lincoln if the applications were granted.

2. If the Lincoln Fire Department refused further service, West Lincoln could ask for help from the fire units at the Lincoln Air Force Base, the Air National Guard and the Naval Air Station.

3. Occupation tax for applicants could be raised from the present $105 per year to $250 to $750 per year bringing in additional revenue to West Lincoln.

Suez Users Assn. Is Set Up

As Western Big Three Still Differ ... On Settlement

By ARTHUR GAVSHON
LONDON (AP) — Fifteen powers set up the Suez Canal Users Assn. Monday against a background of Western Big Three differences over how to tackle a final settlement with Egypt.

Three nations — Japan, Ethiopia and Pakistan — still were sitting on the fence.

The United States, Britain and France sponsored the formation of SCUA as a stopgap group to press Egypt peacefully to give up sole control of the waterway.

The U.N. Security Council is due to debate the crisis on Friday. Informed diplomats here say the United States favors a softer more flexible approach to Egypt than Britain and France.

The Americans reportedly would like to get Egypt into talks. The British and French would like to chart courses that would compel the regime of President Nasser to come to acceptable terms.

Pius X Central High Opens

A total of 171 students, five priests, seven sisters and one layman, officially opened Pius X Central High School at 35th and A Streets in Lincoln Monday.

Most Soil Payments In October

Few Counties Have Them Now

By RICHARD FELLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Soil Bank payments for the 1955 acreage reserve program have already been received in some Nebraska counties—such as Thayer in the northeastern part of the state—but in most counties payments will come some time during October. State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation officials said Monday.

State ASC Director Robert Webb said that the payments, made in the form of drafts, will come from the ASC offices in each county. These are now being processed.

State ASC officials said there was no way to predict the exact date when all the payments would be out, due to the difference in the number of farmers and farm acres participating.

Farmers Can Cancel Wheat Agreements

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson said Monday wheat farmers who have signed up to participate in the 1957 soil bank will be permitted to cancel their agreements in some cases.

Those who signed 1957 wheat acreage reserve agreements and who have farm allotments on other crops will be permitted to cancel their wheat agreements after the mailing of their last official notice of a farm allotment for 1957.

Farmers who have only wheat allotments applicable to the soil bank may cancel or reverse their previously signed wheat acreage reserve agreements through Oct. 5, 1956.

Benson said Monday's act or was taken to permit winter wheat producers who have allotments on other crops to make their final decision after all allotment information for 1957 is available.

For these producers the deadline for cancellation or revision of the 1957 winter wheat acreage reserve agreements will be 15 days after the mailing of a farm allotment from the county agricultural stabilization and conservation office.

Hope Seen For Bases In Iceland

WASHINGTON (INS) — The U.S. and Iceland expressed hope Monday of "fruitful results" from their talks for a compromise over Iceland's demand for the withdrawal of American troops.

But Icelandic Foreign Minister Emil Jonsson retorted during an 45-minute conference with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, his government's determination that the U.S. quit its air base at Keflavik.

Their discussion was described as a preliminary exchange of views. Another meeting of officials with Jonsson, which Dulles may not be able to attend, was scheduled for Wednesday, when a time and place for detailed negotiations will be set.

However, a communiqué issued after Monday's session said there was a general friendly exchange of views which gave rise to hope that once negotiations are undertaken they will lead to fruitful results.

Session Opens—HIGH COURT TO TACKLE CIVIL RIGHTS

By G. K. HODENFIELD
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Monday began a session that may go far in determining the country's future course in the field of civil rights.

The nine-man court in the weeks and months ahead will tackle a heavy docket of cases studded with problems of racial integration in public schools. It will also consider applications of the Smith Act, the government's primary weapon against the Communist party.

The 20-minute opening session was, by tradition, held to be formalities. Next Monday the court will begin hearing arguments on the renewed attacks against the Smith Act.

The court's term year opened when Chief Justice Earl Warren and his eight associate justices met in the high-ceilinged, marble-columned chamber.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr., of New Jersey, is expected to be a member of the court's majority on the court's decision on the school segregation cases.

During the summer recess, three appeals were filed from District Court cases stemming from the high court's order last year to end enforced segregation in public schools. "All deliberate speed."

The court's handling of appeals involving District Court decisions will indicate how closely it intends to supervise the carrying out of its 1955 order.

Miss Dallas Hunt of Lincoln, who has taken many regional and national honors in rodeo contests, will leave Lincoln Wednesday morning to go to Chicago for the National Miss Rodeo America contest.

The queen's contest lasts until Monday. If Miss Hunt should win, she will remain in Chicago until Oct. 13th.

HST Charges Small Business Failure Increase Is 'Fantastic'

NEW YORK (INS) — Former President Harry S. Truman charged Monday that a "fantastic and astonishing" increase in small business failures has occurred under the Eisenhower administration.

Truman declared the Republican Administration has "gambled and bungled" policies in the fields of small business and agriculture.

The former chief executive said he would do anything in his power "anywhere, at any time" to help elect Democrats, he added.

"I'm at your service. The welfare of this country is wrapped up in the Democratic party."

Truman said the administration's foreign policy, Truman said, has been "gambled and bungled" in many areas that have been "gambled and bungled" by the Democrats.

Such blows to American prestige as the Communist sale of arms to Egypt "could have been stopped" if, he said, "I had a say in the matter."

Truman said the abandonment of the Roosevelt Truman program of foreign policy by the Republicans has lost us "almost" all our friends abroad in the last four years, and if you put this outfit back again we'll lose every single one of them.

Truman also took note of GOP attacks directed against him and glibly that he was only "a re-buffed" former from Missouri" who is baffled because the Republican administration is "running against me and I'm not even running."

Commenting on the forthcoming visit of Vice President Nixon to New York, the former president said:

"The Democrats will welcome Nixon with open arms. The more we have him here, the better it is for the Democrats. Mr. Nixon does not have the confidence of the people of the United States."

Truman praised the campaign of the Democratic standard bearer, Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver.

A foe of Stevenson during the Democratic convention because of the former Illinois governor's 1952 campaign policies, Truman said he now all the presidential candidate now is "a better bet."

"It's very encouraging," he said, "that Nixon is going to elect him."

90 Per Cent

The first organizational meeting of SCUA was attended by the envoys of 18 powers, representing 90 per cent of the shipping that passes through Suez. All have supported the idea of an international regime to control the canal.

Japan, Pakistan and Ethiopia were represented by observers.

The 15 members are Australia, Denmark, France, West Germany, Italy, Iran, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Portugal, Turkey, Spain, Sweden, the United States and Britain.

SCUA's announced purposes include seeking the cooperation of Nasser in collection of canal tolls that might be withheld from Egypt while efforts are made toward settling the dispute.

SCUA will start working in about two weeks.

The agenda of a second session of the conference of ambassadors probably Wednesday will include the appointment of an administrator. The European member countries would like an American, the Americans reportedly prefer a European.

While SCUA's exact role was not entirely clear, a report from Pasa said at the northern end of the canal said the Egyptians are managing the job of handling ships smoothly.

Just Five Less

The Egyptian administrators of Suez claimed 1,592 ships had passed through the waterway during September—only five less than in September, 1955, when the canal was under management of the old company.

Suez Users Assn. Is Set Up

As Western Big Three Still Differ ... On Settlement

By ARTHUR GAVSHON LONDON (AP) — Fifteen powers set up the Suez Canal Users Assn. Monday against a background of Western Big Three differences over how to tackle a final settlement with Egypt.

Three nations — Japan, Ethiopia and Pakistan — still were sitting on the fence.

The United States, Britain and France sponsored the formation of SCUA as a stopgap group to press Egypt peacefully to give up sole control of the waterway.

The U.N. Security Council is due to debate the crisis on Friday. Informed diplomats here say the United States favors a softer, more flexible approach to Egypt than Britain and France.

The Americans reportedly would like to get Egypt into talks. The British and French would like to chart courses that would compel the regime of President Nasser to come to acceptable terms.

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain once more refused to rule out force as a final solution.

Lloyd told newsmen just before leaving by plane for New York and the U.N. Security Council debate on Suez:

"We dislike the use of force, but we intend to stand by our rights and the rights of other nations."

Lloyd said he was confident the U.N. "will see the justice of our case."

Want United Front

Lloyd and Foreign Minister Christian Pineau of France will meet with Secretary of State Dulles ahead of the U.N. debate in an effort to present a united front before the Security Council.

British and French officials emphasized that Dulles has given them no reason to doubt that the United States wants anything less than they do—a settlement based on some form of international control of Suez.

But differences have come up relating to tactics and methods.

The United States has cautioned against a Security Council resolution condemning the Nasser regime that would tend to alienate Asian opinion and give an opening to Russians to cash in with a certain veto.

The first organizational meeting of SCUA was attended by the envoys of 18 powers, representing 90 per cent of the shipping that passed through Suez. All have supported the idea of an international regime to control the canal.

The 171 students previously had attended Cathedral High School. The opening Mass was offered at St. Teresa's Monday morning. The Reverend John W. Kelly is principal of the new school. (Star Photo).

Most Soil Payments In October

Few Counties Have Them Now

By RICHARD FELLMAN Star Staff Writer

Soil Bank payments for the 1956 acreage reserve program have already been received in some Nebraska counties—such as Thurston in the northeastern part of the state—but in most counties payments will come some time during October, State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation officials said Monday.

State ASC Director Robert Webb said that the payments, made in the form of drafts, will come from the ASC offices in each county. These are now being processed.

State ASC officials said there was no way to predict the exact date when all the payments would be out, due to the difference in the number of farmers and farm acres participating.

Intricate Forms

In some counties, they said, local office forces are still working on the intricate forms required before the payment can be made. This includes the checking of the actual acreage, measuring it, then computing the payment due the farmer and splitting this payment up according to the ownership of the farms.

According to Robert Zink, in charge of Nebraska soil bank operations, some of the counties in the drought-hit areas of central and eastern Nebraska have over 1,500 individual agreements to complete. This will take additional time for the regular - sized office staff, he said.

In all counties, the ASC said, payments will not be made until at least half of the drafts are ready. By thus waiting the office crews hope to prevent unnecessary delays caused by calls and complaints of those getting a payment a few days later than others in the local area.

Reports from Washington that "an undisclosed number of corn farmers in Nebraska and Iowa" were exercising the newly granted option to back out of their soil bank contracts were questioned by Nebraska officials.

They said they knew nothing of the situation in other states, but that in Nebraska they had heard of "very few" farmers desiring to get a release.

Webb explained that it was unlikely that Nebraska corn growers would want to back out. He said that between the sign up deadline at the end of July and the destruction date—set at the end of August or in some drought emergency counties into September—the prospects for a better crop than anticipated the day of sign up were few.

"This could be either one or a thousand, and it seems to us close."

Farmers Can Cancel Wheat Agreements

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson said Monday wheat farmers who have signed up to participate in the 1957 soil bank will be permitted to cancel their agreements in some cases.

Those who signed 1957 wheat acreage reserve agreements and who have farm allotments on other crops will be permitted to cancel their wheat agreements after the mailing of their last official notice of a farm allotment for 1957.

Farmers who have only wheat allotments applicable to their farms may cancel or revise their previously signed wheat acreage reserve agreements through Oct. 5, 1956.

Benson said Monday's action was taken to permit winter wheat producers who have allotments on other crops to make their final decision after all allotment information for 1957 is available.

For these producers the deadline for cancellation or revision of the 1957 winter wheat acreage reserve agreements will be 15 days after the mailing of the farmer's last official notice of a farm allotment from the county agricultural stabilization and conservation office.

Many farmers have been reluctant to put land in wheat acreage reserve before knowing the effect of other allotments on their operations, the department said. Under previous regulations wheat acreage reserve agreements for 1957, once signed by farmers, could not be cancelled by them.

er to one," Webb said. The State ASC office last week received a wire announcing a change in policy and forwarded it to all county offices. Along with the announcement, which said that a farmer could cancel his agreement if he misunderstood its penalty provisions, went state office comments that instructions would soon follow. Zink said Monday that his office had received no instructions on this matter from Washington.

Right now, ASC officials explained, the only agencies knowing exactly how many farmers will cancel are the individual county offices. They added that they didn't "think there were many farmers who misunderstood the original penalty provisions and wanted out."

Hope Seen For Bases In Iceland

WASHINGTON (INS)—The U.S. and Iceland expressed hope Monday of "fruitful results" from their search for a compromise over Iceland's demand for the withdrawal of American troops.

But Icelandic Foreign Minister Emil Jonsson restated during an 85-minute conference with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles his government's determination that the U.S. quit its air base at Keflavik.

Their discussion was described as a preliminary exchange of views. Another meeting of U.S. officials with Jonsson, which Dulles may not be able to attend, was scheduled for Wednesday, when a time and place for detailed negotiations will be set.

However, a communique issued after Monday's session said: "There was a general friendly exchange of views which gave rise to hope that once negotiations are undertaken they will lead to fruitful results."

4-Day Trip

Jonsson arrived in Washington Sunday to spend four days talking with American officials about Iceland's decision that U.S. troops must leave Iceland.

But the visiting foreign minister kept the door open for a compromise solution.

Jonsson, a Social Democrat in the coalition government that came to power promising to rid Iceland of U.S. troops, explained his greatest problem will be to find a solution acceptable to both governments.

The coalition, which includes the Progressive party and the Communist-front labor alliance, maintains the American base is no longer needed, since Russia has softened its belligerent attitude.

Supported by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the U.S. argues the Soviet threat is just as great now as in 1949 when the Keflavik base was established.

HIGH COURT TO TACKLE CIVIL RIGHTS

By G. K. HODENFIELD

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Monday began a session that may go far in determining the country's future course in the field of civil rights.

The nine-man court in the weeks and months ahead will tackle a heavy docket of cases studied with problems of racial integration in public schools. It will also consider applications of the Smith Act, the government's primary weapon against the Communist party.

The 26-minute opening session was, by tradition, held to brief formalities. Next Monday the court will begin hearing arguments on the renewed attacks against the Smith Act.

The court's 166th year opened when Chief Justice Earl Warren led his eight black-robed colleagues into the high-ceilinged, marble-columned chamber.

Minton's Last

For Associate Justice Sherman Minton, this week and next will be his last on the high bench. Minton, 65, is retiring Oct. 15 because of ill health.

President Eisenhower Saturday named William J. Brennan Jr., of New Jersey to succeed him. Brennan's appointment is subject to approval of the Senate.

Probably no other matter on the court's docket will receive the attention certain to be given the court's actions in school segregation cases.

During the summer recess three appeals were filed from District Court cases stemming from the high court's order last year to end enforced segregation in public schools "with all deliberate speed."

The court's handling of appeals involving District Court decisions will indicate how closely it intends to supervise the carrying out of its 1955 order.

Two Texas Cases

Two of the appeals now pending are from Texas school boards. The third appeal was filed by a group of South Carolina Negro parents who want their children admitted immediately to white schools.

Also scheduled for hearing is an appeal by Steve Nelson, Pittsburgh Communist party leader, and by 14 California Communist leaders. All were convicted of advocating violent overthrow of the government, a criminal offense under the Smith Act.

Council Meet Set

GENEVA, Neb.—The Fillmore County Home Extension Council will meet at the United Brethren Church here next Monday morning. An officers training meeting will be held during the afternoon.

The queen's contest lasts until Monday. If Miss Hunt should win, she will remain in Chicago until Oct. 13th.

HST Charges Small Business Failure Increase Is 'Fantastic'

... During Eisenhower Administration

NEW YORK (INS) — Former President Harry S. Truman charged Monday that a "fantastic and astonishing" increase in small business failures has occurred under the Eisenhower administration.

Truman declared the Republican Administration has "garbled and bungled" policies in the fields of small business and agriculture.

The former chief executive said he would do anything in his power "anywhere, at any time" to help elect Democrats. He added: "I'm at your service. The welfare of this country is wrapped up in the Democratic party."

Criticizing the administration's foreign policy, Truman said Communist plans in many areas had been thwarted by the Democrats.

Such blows to American prestige as the Communist sale of arms to Egypt "could have been stopped like that," he said, snapping his fingers.

Truman said the abandonment of the Roosevelt-Truman bipartisan foreign policy by the Republicans

Newcomen Society Honors Woodmen Accident And Life Co.

Woodmen Accident and Life Company at Lincoln became the fourth Nebraska organization to be honored by the Newcomen Society of North America during its 35-year history.

Dr. Charles Penrose of Philadelphia, Pa., senior vice president for North America of the Newcomen Society of England presided at banquet ceremonies held Monday.

The Society, numbering some 14,500 members, at 60 meetings a year honors organizations for outstanding contributions in their fields of enterprise.

Contributes to Security

Dr. Penrose said Woodmen Accident and Life has "contributed to the security of American citizens, thus contributing to the material progress of mankind."

"That measure of security," Dr. Penrose said, "is a very potent factor in the efficiency and peace of mind of those engaged in the various fields of productivity."

Only four other Nebraska organizations have been so honored by the Newcomen Society.

They are the Omaha National Bank at Omaha, the University of Nebraska, 1914; and the First National Bank of Lincoln, 1951.

Firm's History Told

Edwin J. Faulkner, president of Woodmen Accident and Life, delivered the Newcomen address, which traced the life-story of the company from 1890.

According to Faulkner, the company was formed by Dr. Albert O. Faulkner of York, Neb., who was attempting to find a method by which the financial burden of disability for his patients might be eased.

Gathering a few of his friends to serve as incorporators, Dr. Faulkner established the company—called the Modern Woodmen Accident Association—on the mutual assessment plan.

He restricted the initial solicitation of insurance to members of the Modern Woodmen, an early personal insurance group in Nebraska who had qualified for life insurance and were easily accessible to him through his Modern Woodmen work.

806 Policies

At the end of the first twelve months of operation, the company reported having written 806 policies, collected $20,830 in premiums and accumulated net assets or surplus of $619.10.

The Health Company, after a fine initial start, was shown by Faulkner to have undergone great periods of change and innovation—highlighted by the crippling effects of the influenza epidemic of 1918.

Harding's "return to normalcy" period, the Depression era, the Second World War and new proportions of strength gained during the post war period.

"Today," Faulkner said, "...

Dignitaries Attend Newcomen Society Dinner

Dignitaries attending the Newcomen Society banquet in honor of the Woodmen Accident and Life Co. were (left to right):

George W. Holmes, chairman of the board of First National Bank of Lincoln and chairman of the Nebraska Committee of the Newcomen Society in North

its leaders recognize that not only the future of insurance but very largely the future of all private enterprise depends upon the success of voluntary life, health and accident insurance in satisfying the real needs of insurable Americans.

"Continuous Improvement" There has been continuous improvement, he continued, "not only in the quantity of private insurance in force, but in the quality of the protection conferred."

The energizing force of open, free and keep competition, he asserted, has brought about the successive adoption of one improvement after another and has "... served as the best regulator of premium rates, assuring the policyholder the lowest cost compatible with sound operation."

"In an economy in which the hand of government weighs heavily on nearly every phase of human activity," Faulkner concluded, "we cannot fail to be articulate on matters bearing upon the welfare of the American insuring public."

The Newcomen Society is composed of leaders in industry, transportation, utilities, engineering, banking and finance, economics, communication, and education.

The Society's interest centers in the material history, as distinguished from political history, of the growth, development and progress of mankind.

Its name perpetuates the life and work of Thomas Newcomen, an English instrument maker and mathematician, whose invention of the steam engine paved the way for the Industrial Revolution.

Newcomen's inventive genius preceded by more than 50 years the brilliant work in steam by the world-famous James Watt.

Some 20 Newcomen steam engines, used to pump water from mines, were in use when Watt conceived a cold water jacket around the steam cylinder, conserving steam and greatly increasing the engine's power. Dr. Penrose said, "The Newcomen Society in North America numbers some 14,500 members in 77 regional groups."

Woodman Accident is one of the first in the insurance field to be so honored by the Society, he said. William I. Aitken, partner in the legal firm of Aitken and Aitken and a member of the Board of Directors of the Woodmen Accident and Life Company, introduced Faulkner.

Sitting at the guests table were: Donald M. Elliman, vice-president of the Bank of New York in New York; Thomas R. Pansing, director of insurance for the State of Nebraska; Ralph H. Koster, general counsel for the American Life Convention in Chicago; The Rt. Rev. Howard R. Stricker, Epis-

Phil Weaver of Falls City.

Newcomen Society Honors Woodmen Accident And Life Co.

Woodmen Accident and Life Company at Lincoln became the fourth Nebraska organization to be honored by the Newcomen Society in North America during its 35-year history.

Dr. Charles Penrose of Philadelphia, Pa., senior vice president for North America of the Newcomen Society of England presided at banquet ceremonies held Monday.

The Society, numbering some 14,500 members, at 60 meetings a year honors organizations for outstanding contributions in their fields of enterprise.

'Contributes to Security'

Dr. Penrose said Woodmen Accident and Life has "contributed to the security of American citizens, thus contributing to the material progress of mankind."

"That measure of security," Dr. Penrose said, "is a very potent factor in the efficiency and peace of mind of those engaged in the various fields of productivity."

Only four other Nebraska organizations have been so honored by the Newcomen Society.

They are the Omaha National Bank at Omaha, the University of Nebraska, 1949; and the First National Bank of Lincoln, 1951.

Firm's History Told

Edwin J. Faulkner, president of Woodmen Accident and Life, delivered the Newcomen address, which traced the life-story of the company from 1890.

According to Faulkner, the company was formed by Dr. Albert O. Faulkner of York, Neb., who was attempting to find a method by which the financial burden of disability for his patients might be eased.

Gathering a few of his friends to serve as incorporators, Dr. Faulkner established the company—called the Modern Woodmen Accident Association—on the mutual assessment plan.

He restricted the initial solicitation of insurance to members of the Modern Woodmen, an early personal insurance group in Nebraska who had qualified for life insurance and were easily accessible to him through his Modern Woodmen work.

806 Policies

At the end of the first twelve months of operation, the company reported having written 806 policies, collected $20,830 in premiums and accumulated net assets or surplus of $619.10.

The Health Company, after a fine initial start, was shown by Faulkner to have undergone great periods of change and innovation—highlighted by the crippling effects of the influenza epidemic of 1918, Harding's "return to normalcy" period, the Depression era, the Second World War and new proportions of strength gained during the post war period.

"Today," Faulkner said, "...

Dignitaries Attend Newcomen Society Dinner

E. J. Faulkner, president of Woodmen Accident and Life Co., and a member of the Newcomen Nebraska committee; and Charles Penrose, Philadelphia and New York, senior vice president for North America of The Newcomen Society of England. (Star Photo.)

its leaders recognize that not only the future of insurance but very largely the future of all private enterprise depends upon the success of voluntary life, health and accident insurance in satisfying the real needs of insurable Americans."

'Continuous Improvement'

There has been continuous improvement, he continued, "not only in the quantity of private insurance in force, but in the quality of the protection conferred."

The energizing force of open, free and keep competition, he asserted, has brought about the successive adoption of one improvement after another and has "... served as the best regulator of premium rates, assuring the policyholder the lowest cost compatible with sound operation."

"In an economy in which the hand of government weighs heavily on nearly every phase of human activity," Faulkner concluded, "we cannot fail to be articulate on matters bearing upon the welfare of the American insuring public."

The Newcomen Society is composed of leaders in industry, transportation, utilities, engineering, banking and finance, economics, communication, and education.

The Society's interest centers in the material history, as distinguished from political history, of the growth, development and progress of mankind.

Its name perpetuates the life and work of Thomas Newcomen, an English instrument maker and mathematician, whose invention of the steam engine paved the way for the Industrial Revolution.

Republicans To Move High-Powered Campaign Speakers Into Nebraska

The Republican party is rolling some high-powered speakers into Nebraska in the remaining weeks of the campaign.

State GOP Chairman Richard E. Spelts Jr. of Grand Island said Monday that Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson, Sen. Styles Bridges (N.H.) and Sen. William F. Knowland (Calif.) will speak at Republican rallies over the state in the month of October.

These are in addition to the appearance of Vice President Richard Nixon who will address the National Mechanical Compacting Contest at Columbus Oct. 12.

Benson to Speak

Secretary Benson will address a dinner at Scottsbluff Oct. 13 under the auspices of Scotts Bluff County Republicans headed by Richard Van Steenberg of Mitchell.

Sen. Bridges is slated to speak at a luncheon at Hastings Oct. 23. Richard Marvel of Hastings is Adams County GOP chairman. The New Hampshire senator then goes to Kearney that evening where he will address a dinner. Charlie Hill is Republican chairman of Buffalo County.

Sen. Knowland will speak at a Red Willow County GOP luncheon at McCook Oct. 24. Harold Sutton is county chairman. The Senate minority leader then goes to Grand Island that evening to address a Hall County GOP rally headed by Robert Kriz.

Don Ross of Omaha, general counsel for the Republican State Central Committee, has made the arrangements for the GOP speakers' appearances in the state.

Branches Increasing

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Citizens for Eisenhower-Nixon said the number of its branches is increasing daily in traditionally Democratic states. The volunteer groups work to line up independent and normally Democratic votes in behalf of the Republican national ticket.

These Enchanting Years

The Lincoln Star observes an anniversary. It embarked upon 55 years of publication Tuesday. There has been a lot happen in those years—years which have seen greater change than any other period in history.

We lived in a very tiny world of our own in 1902—a world which was yet to see the greatest discovery, invention, and science—particularly invention and science, contributing as they have to an undreamed-of mechanization with all of its profound influence upon individual human life. The American newspaper which this week celebrates "Newspaper Week" has made unbelievable progress in the field of collecting and distributing news. Today only a few seconds elapse between developments in the far corners of the earth, off the beaten paths, and in still primitive lands among primitive peoples, and the time that those developments become common knowledge.

edge, to Americans. We no longer live in isolation because of the great triumphs achieved in transportation and communication. The newspaper which got along with a telegraph report of 10,000 words a day now receives from five to eight times that number of words and in the instances of the crowded metropolitan centers, even more.

These years of the automobile, the airplane, the unlocking of the atom have been fascinating years, enchanting years, and in no field more enchanting than to the men and women given the rare privilege of producing the American newspaper. To have had even a small listening post or a seat to observe these milestones fleeting by so rapidly has been a most satisfying experience. One could not ask for more, and one cannot be insensitive to newspaper responsibilities moving all associated with it to conscientious efforts.

Nebraska Record Is Better

The week-end death toll brought Nebraska's highway fatalities to 226 for 1956 thus far. That was six less than the 232 recorded for the same period of time in 1955.

If one deals in mere statistics the six fewer fatalities in 1956 do not signify any consequential triumph in behalf of highway safety. If one deals in terms of human life, even one is a consequential figure. Six less deaths are cause for expressions of gratitude.

Nebraska will never consider a highway accident report satisfactory until it can factually say that all of the tragedies were preventable. So long as as much as one life is taken that could have reasonably been saved our crusade for safety must be considered wanting.

But it is significant to learn that while Nebraska is continuing in 1956 to report even slightly fewer fatal accidents the nation in general is losing ground Monday the National Safety Council said the toll for 1956 appears headed for a new record of between 41,000 and 42,000 fatalities. Highway accidents killed 3,600 in August, a two per cent increase over August of 1955.

At the end of the first eight months of 1956 the highway death toll was 2,550, an eight per cent increase over 1955 when the eight month toll was 2,350.

These are not encouraging figures. They say that the nation can expect the death toll of 40,000 per year unless it does better in the year of 1957. That is comparable to a calamity which in one year could destroy every one in two such Nebraska cities as Fremont, or say, Hastings. Yet it is noteworthy how complacently a nation accepts such a levy of death.

No Immunized Child Died

It was an impressive statement of Dr. David E. Price, Surgeon General of the U.S. Public Health Service, who this week said:

"Not a single child who has had the full complement of three polio vaccine shots has died from the disease this year."

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

Nebraskans bade farewell to September of 1956, convinced more than ever that the most important job confronting the people of this state is the expansion of irrigation. It contributes substantially to farm stability. We were amazed that former Gov. R. L. Cochran, retiring from the Budget Bureau, came back to Nebraska to voice sharp criticism of the Bureau of Reclamation. In a series of articles in an Omaha newspaper, Cochran criticized reclamation projects on the grounds that charges credited to irrigation in the construction of multiple-purpose dams did not cover the full costs of irrigation.

When partisanship is involved, rarely do we find ourselves occupying the same ground as Rep. A. L. Miller of the Fourth Nebraska District, a veteran in the lower house of Congress and ranking Republican member of the Committee on Internal Affairs. The Fourth District Nebraskan, addressing an audience at St. Paul in the Middle Loup Valley, said the facts relative to the cost of reclamation projects had been distorted greatly. Miller said that the Reclamation Bureau had received $2.4 billion for reclamation in the last 50 years. Flood control projects in the last 16 years have received $11 billions. Mr. Miller told his audience, "While it is true," he added, "that reclamation projects pay no interest, they do pay back the principal and at this time more than $600 million of the $2.4 billion appropriated for reclamation projects has been returned to the federal treasury. The $11 billion in flood control in 16 years is a gift to the community. They pay back not one cent, principal or interest. I think they are necessary and I have supported the flood control projects, including the one along the Missouri River, which is so efficiently protecting the property of Omaha and adjacent areas."

Miller Makes Reply

Whatever the costs, Mr. Miller could have said, river basin development in the construction of multiple-purpose dams, seeking to curtail flood damages, to store water and contribute to the expansion of irrigation in semi-arid regions and finally to generate cheap electricity along with other lesser recognized benefits, is well worth while. Gov. Cochran was in Washington at the time of the great flood on the lower Missouri in 1951, but at Kansas City alone in a space of 72 hours, property damage in the lower valley was estimated at a billion dollars.

We are inclined to think that Rep. Miller could have taken one more step. Since the Eisenhower administration came into power, the friends of reclamation developments in this region to the west of the Missouri have recognized that fewer new projects have been undertaken. There has been very little money set aside by the Eisenhower Budget Bureau to initiate new reclamation developments. We now hear more and more that the responsibility rests upon the local community, or that there should be a partnership between the local community, the state, and private enterprise on one hand, and Uncle Sam on the other. In this last 20 years the brightest story written about the Great North American Plains has been the remarkable progress made in the development of irrigation, the storage of water, and conservation practices upon the soil. If former Gov. Cochran hasn't any thing more to worry about than the money that Uncle Sam spends for reclamation developments, then Mr. Cochran hasn't a worry in the world. Those irrigation projects are sound, and they will be much more deeply appreciated 25 years hence than they are now. What should concern those of us who live in the west of the Missouri River is that in these last two years of drought, the trend seems to have been against initiating new developments, with critics of the type of Cochran having a field day.

Still One More Step

We may have our wet and dry cycles—our floods and our droughts—but for a stable, prosperous, progressive region, we need irrigation. And the more it can be expanded, the more we can expect this region to the west of the Missouri to bloom.

I was a timely statement for September considered the peak month for polio in the northern states and by all the experience of the past the critical period for 1956 is over. It was a high year for the ailment. From January 1 through September 22, Dr. Price said there were 11,563 new cases. During the corresponding period of 1955 there were 21,751 new cases. The fall-off is approximately 50 per cent.

Nebraska followed the national pattern according to Dr. E. A. Rogers, state director of health, who said Monday:

"Nebraska cases are approximately half and the year has been especially safe for those who had their third shots."

Dr. Rogers said it is hard to assign credit for the decline for there are years when polio strikes but lightly. But he said it would be hard to discount immunization if Nebraska cases are studied. The year, he said, was remarkably light in the age groups that were eligible for the shots.

This brought a suggestion from Dr. Rogers. "It is to be hoped," he said, "that a great number of Nebraskans act now in starting their shots. Nebraska has momentarily an abundance of vaccine. It is perishable. If it is used now the state can greatly expand its immunization. If it is not used it will be wasted. In a world where it is so greatly needed it would be wrong to allow supplies of it to deteriorate anywhere."

Adults, Attention

The current seven days have been proclaimed National Christian Education Week by the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. and observances are going on in innumerable communities.

The event coincides with the resumption of Sunday School and released time insurance after the usual summer vacation period.

Sunday school to many adults is something for children and education is a thing that can be set aside or done according to convenience when one reaches maturity. But it happens that the rules of correct living bear more heavily on the mature than on the immature because the consequences of error are more disastrous. This is especially so in a world which has been projected into an era where spiritual values must accommodate to or take control of so much dangerous advancement lest progress and enlightenment commit tragic self-damage.

It is to be hoped that the current week, therefore, finds the mature more than usually willing to review and learn more of those spiritual values which in the past has provided so much guidance to a confused world.

Figures Too High

In a recent editorial on conservation of water in eastern Nebraska we quoted 24-month rainfall figures as annual totals thus giving unrealistically high precipitation averages for the section. We hasten to correct the error though it did not militate the sense of the editorial which pointed out that even in dry years there is sufficient precipitation which, if adequately conserved and managed, would amply protect the sections against massive crop loss. Nor did it abolish the point the periodic crop losses pay for protection the area is not getting.

'Child Shall Lead' Might Bring Peace

Washington, D.C.
Dear Drew,

I am now home from the Holy Land, and I still haven't written you about the camels I saw over there. I saw them in Beer-sheva in the south of Israel which is where Abraham used to bring his sheep and his camels and his sons to get water.

Today, Beer-sheva is quite a modern city, but the Arabs still bring their camels and their sheep and their sheep into the town as Abraham did more than 3,000 years ago.

In the Beer-sheva market I saw some Arabs leading camels onto a truck. The Arabs seem to be quite up to date and carry their camels by truck. But this truck already had three camels in it, which is a lot of camels for one truck, so a fourth camel just didn't want to get in. I didn't blame her, because there wasn't room.

But the Arabs beat that poor camel and yanked her and whipped her, until finally she squeezed into the truck on top of the other camels. Later I saw the camels being unloaded at the farm of a Jewish settler outside the city. They all had napkins when they got out of that truck.

Probably you have seen the headlines in the newspapers lately about the shooting between the Arabs and the Jews who don't live in peace on the opposite sides of their border. Some of the worst of this shooting has been around Jerusalem, the Holy City where Christ was buried.

Just a few weeks ago, your granddaddy was in Jerusalem and talked to a Jewish immigrant from Algiers who had a ladder tied to the balcony in front of his house. I saw the ladder and asked him why he had it in such a peculiar place. He explained that the main entrance to his house faced an Arab machine-gun nest and that sometimes the Arabs shot at him as he went in his front door. So, when they were in a shooting mood, he didn't use his main entrance, but lowered the ladder from his balcony and went in and out of his house that way.

I looked at the main entrance to his house and there, all around the doorway, were bullet holes.

The Jews have given the world some of the greatest scientists, some of the greatest artists, greatest writers, greatest businessmen. But so far they haven't been able to solve this greatest problem of all—peace. The word Jerusalem comes from the old Hebrew "Jeru-salayim," which means "peace."

But today in Jerusalem there is no peace. And I was thinking that perhaps the solution to this trouble, the way to bring peace, might be quite simple—just stop shooting, arrange a real truce, and begin working at some people-to-people friendship. Perhaps if the statesmen of the world wouldn't push this, maybe it could be inspired by little boys like you.

I, for instance, the little boy of Israel and the Arab states demanded of their fathers that they stop shooting back and forth across the border soon, then it might stop. Perhaps if they demanded that it stop for at least 30 days, and that no one on either side lift a finger for 30 days no matter what the provocation, then from that 30 days of thinking about peace, there might come more peace.

Court Appointment Is As Yet Insecure

CHICAGO — Leading Democrats had been alerted last week to the possibility that President Eisenhower would name Judge William Henry Rehnquist, the Negro serving with distinction on the U.S. Court of Appeals, to the Supreme Court.

They are therefore not surprised that he has named a member of the strong minority religion, Roman Catholic, to the vacancy caused by the retirement of Associate Justice Sherman Minton of Indiana. They suggest that the new surprise and shock will be to Republicans since the President's third choice for the high court, William Joseph Brennan Jr., associate justice of the New Jersey Supreme Court, is a lifelong Democrat and at least a Justice Liberal to boot.

Justice Brennan is still a measurable distance from permanent tenure. Because the Senate is not in session and so cannot confirm him, he has a recess appointment complete by the mercy of the presidential returns Nov. 6 and with an assured path through the next Congress.

All the early reports on Justice Brennan from his home state are favorable. But at least three of his future high court colleagues privately admit they never heard of him and he is unknown to politicians and the general public. The appointment therefore is being discussed in political terms only. It seems fair to say that the President looked for a jurist from one of the country's important minorities whose qualifications and character are excellent.

Democrats may claim more or less privately that the President could not find a qualified Catholic Republican and has only succeeded in proving that minorities find their greatest comfort in the Democratic party. But it could well be that the President preferred to name a Democrat at this point and considered the ire of some Republicans a price within his means.

For Republicans have nowhere else to go. And the are unimpeachable signs that the public image of Eisenhower as the world hero, the great harmonizer, the chief of state above partisan politics, has become blurred.

Those signs are accompanied by dramatic upsurge in Democratic party loyalty. It is shown in the amazing string of Democratic victories since 1952, in registration, in organization activity.

Since Democrats traditionally command the big cities which may make the difference in the big states where elections are won and lost, the importance to the President of a dramatic appeal to the normally Democratic minorities of these big cities is obvious.

Red Mass Murder In China Described

NEW YORK — Some of our best friends overseas, including Britain, rushed to recognize Red China diplomatically when the Communists took over. Other good friends, notably West Germany and Japan, are engaged in lively trade relations with the Chinese Red government.

This nation is providing a moral lesson for history by keeping Red China out of the U.N., as well as of the list of countries with which we have relations and understandings. Nobody has summed up our reasons better than former U.S. ambassador to Tokyo, Joseph C. Grew. In a book he called "Invasion Alert," he wrote that the Marian Corbett, 701 North E. Street, Baltimore, and backed by the influential "Committee of One Million Against the Admission of Communist China into the United Nations" makes some astonishing revelations and charges:

"In 1912, Josef Stalin outlined his 'Formula for Dictators' to the Chinese ambassador in Moscow, Yang Cheeh, for relay to Nationalist Chinese president Chiang Kai-Shek.

"The fundamental principle of gaining and maintaining control," he told Yang Cheeh in effect, "is to completely eliminate opposition—all of it, down to and including all of its branches and roots.

"Keep on eliminating until there is no more opposition alive. The example set will prevent new opposition from arising. If you hear that a man is not loyal, if you have any uncertainties at all about his loyalty, kill the man. Kill his family, and his friends who might agree with him politically or be angry at his death.

"You can't afford the time to investigate. But you can't take chances. You will make some mistakes, of course, but you will eliminate opposition." Then Stalin continued:

"If President Chiang wants to establish firm control in China, tell him to kill four million people. Kill them as a matter of policy. He'll have no more trouble after that."

Chiang was horrified at this suggestion when it was relayed to him. "But," continues Grew, "the Communists, plotting Chiang's downfall and enslavement of China, took it to heart. They found only one flaw in the Soviet master's strategy: he didn't think big enough.

"So when Gen. Mao Tse-Tung and foreign minister Chou En-Lai and police boss Lo Jui-Chiang came to power in Peking they set to work killing—only, they multiplied Stalin's figures by five.

"Since 1948 the Chinese Reds, like animals who devour their young, have killed 20,000,000 Chinese—their own people. No war casualty total in history approaches this. No purge, no pogrom, no revolution, no earthquake or flood or famine or holocaust compares. A murder list like that of the Peiping masters would wipe out Argentina or Burma completely from the face of the earth. It would eliminate all the people of Canada and Belgium. It would cut Britain's population in half."

Garden Glances With The Moon

A little learning is a dangerous thing: Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian spring: Three shallow draughts intoxicate the brain, And drinking largely sobers us again. Fired at first sight with what the Muse has said, The fearless youth we tempt the heights of Parnassus, While from the bounded level of our mind Short views we take, nor see the lengths we have to go. But more advanced, behold with astonish surprise New distant scenes of endless science rise: True ease in writing comes from art, not chance, As those move easiest who have learned to dance.

— Alexander Pope

October's moon was new last night in the flexed, barren and dry sign, Virgo. New moon always means first quarter and increase of light and power. Very early tomorrow it will enter the movable, airy and fruitful sign, Libra. And Friday morning at 7:30 it will enter the fixed, watery and exceedingly fruitful sign, Scorpio. Then Sunday afternoon near two o'clock, it will enter the flexed, fiery and barren sign, Sagittarius. So much for the moon's signs. Use them as you think best. Out here on Locust Lane we've perennials to move and a clean-up job to do before tulip-planting time. By all means select tulips now while you can get the varieties you desire, but do not put them into the ground until third quarter.

Mrs. Swingle

Colonial gardeners imported quantities of bulbs against great odds. Even the smoothest of voyagers took three months or more during which time sea captains had little time or inclination to take care of perishable cargo. Often bulbs dried out or would rot from salt water and destruction by rats. Even so, a good percentage did survive. Here in part is a letter received in 1740 by John Bartram, the famous Pennsylvania botanist, from Peter Collinson of London describing a shipment thus:

Included is the mate's receipt for a box of bulbs, directed to thee . . . They are such a collection as is rarely met with. . . There is above twenty sorts of crocuses—as many of narcissus—all sorts of mautagons and lilies—with gladioli, ornithogalums, moeys, and irises, with many others I don't remember, which time will show thee."

Five years earlier — in 1735 — Peter Collinson had sent to John Bartram some white and purple aster plants with this explanation: "The China aster is the noblest and most plant thee ever saw, of that tribe. It was sent per the Jesuits from China to France, thence to us in London . . . It makes a glorious autumn flower."

Two hundred and some years later we do not think of asters as autumn flowers, do we? Modern hybridizers have produced very fine varieties that come into bloom in color and beauty and are gone, leaving us with just a pleasant memory.

Chrysanthemums take the spotlight in our Midwest gardens in autumn, and Lincoln gardeners around with them. They lend themselves wonderfully well to every form of decoration. Some of the newer varieties are so hardy that only a hard frost, usually in November, will spoil their beauty. Many of the earlier varieties come into bloom in early August so we now enjoy this queen of autumn flowers over a period of many weeks.

Picture today is an arrangement for a buffet table by Mrs. Byron Dunn. The occasion was a fiftieth anniversary of the organization of which her husband is president and where many hundreds of guests were present. I wish we could show it in its entirety for the natural golden chrysanthemums arranged with gold bronzes and gold appointments dominated the table and made lasting memories on the minds of the banqueters.

A large exhibition chrysanthemums once were grown only in greenhouses but so many newer varieties are so hardy that one may plant them right out in the garden and when given sufficient water they will produce enormous colorful blooms for long weeks during autumn. Don't, however, transplant chrysanthemums in autumn. This we do in the spring time. You may make a place for them now if you choose and use that far ahead, come the spring. So until another day.

These Enchanting Years

The Lincoln Star observes an anniversary. It embarked upon 55 years of publication Tuesday. There has been a lot happen in those years—years which have seen greater change than any other period in history.

We lived in a very tiny world of our own in 1902—a world which was yet to see the greatest discovery, invention, and science—particularly invention and science, contributing as they have to an undreamed of mechanization with all of its profound influence upon individual human life. The American newspaper which this week celebrates "Newspaper Week" has made unbelievable progress in the field of collecting and distributing news. Today only a few seconds elapse between developments in the far corners of the earth, off the beaten paths, and in still primitive lands among primitive peoples, and the time that those developments become common knowledge, to Americans. We no longer live in isolation because of the great triumphs achieved in transportation and communication. The newspaper which got along with a telegraph report of 10,000 words a day now receives from five to eight times that number of words and in the instances of the crowded metropolitan centers, even more.

These years of the automobile, the airplane, the unlocking of the atom have been fascinating years, enchanting years, and in no field more enchanting than to the men and women given the rare privilege of producing the American newspaper. To have had even a small listening post or a seat to observe these milestones fleeting by so rapidly has been a most satisfying experience. One could not ask for more, and one cannot be insensible to newspaper responsibilities inviting all associated with it to conscientious efforts.

Nebraska Record Is Better

The week-end death toll brought Nebraska's highway fatalities to 226 for 1956 thus far. That was six less than the 232 recorded for the same period of time in 1955.

If one deals in mere statistics the six fewer fatalities in 1956 do not signify any consequential triumph in behalf of highway safety. If one deals in terms of human life, even one is a consequential figure. Six less deaths are cause for expressions of gratitude.

Nebraska will never consider a highway accident report satisfactory until it can factually say that all of the tragedies were unpreventable. So long as as much as one life is taken that could have reasonably been saved our crusade for safety must be considered wanting.

But it is significant to learn that while Nebraska is continuing in 1956 to report even slightly fewer fatal accidents the nation in general is losing ground. Monday the National Safety Council said the toll for 1956 appears headed for a new record of between 41,000 and 42,000 fatalities. Highway accidents killed 3,600 in August, a two per cent increase over August of 1955.

At the end of the first eight months of 1956 the highway death toll was 25,350, an eight per cent increase over 1955 when the eight month mark was 23,460.

These are truly thought-provoking figures. They say that the nation can expect the death of 40,000 persons more or less every year as the result of highway accidents. That is comparable to a calamity which in one year could destroy every one in two such Nebraska cities as Fremont, or say, Hastings. Yet it is noteworthy how complacently a nation accepts such a levy of death.

No Immunized Child Died

It was an impressive statement of Dr. David E. Price, Surgeon General of the U.S. Public Health Service, who this week said:

"Not a single child who has had the full complement of three polio vaccine shots has died from the disease this year."

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

Nebraskans bade farewell to September of 1956, convinced more than ever that the most important job confronting the people of this state is the expansion of irrigation. It contributes substantially to farm stability. We were amazed that former Gov. R. L. Cochran, retiring from the Budget Bureau, came back to Nebraska to voice sharp criticism of the Bureau of Reclamation. In a series of articles in an Omaha newspaper, Cochran criticized reclamation projects on the grounds that charges credited to irrigation in the construction of multiple-purpose dams did not cover the full costs of irrigation.

When partisanship is involved, rarely do we find ourselves occupying the same ground as Rep. A. L. Miller of the Fourth Nebraska District, a veteran in the lower house of Congress and ranking Republican member of the Committee on Internal Affairs. The Fourth District Nebraskan, addressing an audience at St. Paul in the Middle Loup Valley, said the facts relative to the cost of reclamation projects had been distorted greatly. Miller said that the Reclamation Bureau had received $2.4 billion for reclamation in the last 50 years. Flood control projects in the last 16 years have received $11 billions, Mr. Miller told his audience. "While it is true," he added, "that reclamation projects pay no interest, they do pay back the principal and at this time more than $600 million of the $2.4 billion appropriated for reclamation projects has been returned to the federal treasury. The $11 billion in flood control in 16 years is a gift to the community. They pay back not one cent, principal or interest. I think they are necessary and I have supported the flood control projects, including the one along the Missouri River, which is so efficiently protecting the property of Omaha and adjacent areas."

Miller Makes Reply

Whatever the costs, Mr. Miller could have said, river basin development in the construction of multiple-purpose dams, seeking to curtail flood damages, to store water and contribute to the expansion of irrigation in semi-arid regions and finally to generate cheap electricity along with other lesser recognized benefits, is well worth while. Gov. Cochran was in Washington at the time of the great flood on the lower Missouri in 1951, but at Kansas City alone in a space of 72 hours, property damage in the lower valley was estimated at a billion dollars.

We are inclined to think that Rep. Miller could have taken one more step. Since the Eisenhower administration came into power, the friends of reclamation developments in this region to the west of the Missouri have recognized that fewer new projects have been undertaken. There has been very little money set aside by the Eisenhower Budget Bureau to initiate new reclamation developments. We now hear more and more that the responsibility rests upon the local community, or that there should be a partnership between the local community, the state, and private enterprise on one hand, and Uncle Sam on the other. In this last 20 years the brightest story written about the Great North American Plains has been the remarkable progress made in the development of irrigation, the storage of water, and conservation practices upon the soil. If former Gov. Cochran hasn't anything more to worry about than the money that Uncle Sam spends for reclamation developments, then Mr. Cochran hasn't a worry in the world. Those irrigation projects are sound, and they will be much more deeply appreciated 25 years hence than they are now. What should concern those of us who live in the west of the Missouri River is that in these last two years of drought, the trend seems to have been against initiating new developments, with critics of the type of Cochran having a field day.

We may have our wet and dry cycles—our floods and our droughts—but for a stable, prosperous, progressive region, we need irrigation. And the more it can be expanded, the more we can expect this region to the west of the Missouri to bloom.

DREW PEARSON

'Child Shall Lead' Might Bring Peace

Washington, D.C.
Dear Drew,

I am now home from the Holy Land, and I still haven't written you about the camels I saw over there. I saw them in Beersheba in the south of Israel which is where Abraham used to bring his sheep and his camels and his goats to get water.

Today, Beersheba is quite a modern city, but the Arabs still bring their camels and their donkeys and their sheep into the town just as Abraham did more than 3,000 years ago.

In the Beersheba market I saw some Arabs loading camels onto a truck. The Arabs seem to be quite up to date and carry their camels by truck. But this truck already had three camels in it, which is a lot of camels for one truck; so a fourth camel just didn't want to get in. I didn't blame her, because there wasn't room.

But the Arabs beat that poor camel and yanked her and whipped her, until finally she squeezed into the truck on top of the other camels. Later I saw the camels being unloaded at the farm of Sheikh Souleiman outside the city. They looked happier when they got out of that truck.

Probably you have seen the headlines in the newspapers lately about the shooting between the Arabs and the Jews who don't live in peace on the opposite sides of their border. Some of the worst of this shooting has been around Jerusalem, the Holy City where Christ was buried.

Just a few weeks ago, your granddaddy was in Jerusalem and talked to a Jewish immigrant from Algiers who had a ladder tied to the balcony in front of his house. I saw the ladder and asked him why he had it in such a peculiar place. He explained that the main entrance to his house faced an Arab machine-gun nest and that sometimes the Arabs shot at him as he went in his front door. So, when they were in a shooting mood, he didn't use his main entrance, but lowered the ladder from his balcony and went in and out of his house that way.

I looked at the main entrance to his house and there, all around the doorway, were bullet holes.

The Jews have given the world some of the greatest scientists, some of the greatest artists, greatest writers, greatest businessmen. But so far they haven't been able to solve this greatest problem of all—peace. The word Jerusalem comes from the old Hebrew "Jerushalayim," which means "peace."

But today in Jerusalem there is no peace. And I was thinking that perhaps the solution to this trouble, the way to bring peace, might be quite simple—just stop shooting, arrange a real truce, and begin working at some people-to-people friendship. Perhaps if the statesmen of the world won't push this, maybe it could be inspired by little boys like you.

If, for instance, the little boys of Israel and the Arab states demanded of their fathers that this constant shooting back and forth across the border stop, then it might stop. Perhaps if they demanded that it stop for at least 30 days, and that no one on either side lift a finger for 30 days no matter what the provocation, then from that 30 days of thinking about peace, there might come more peace.

Love From Your Grandfather.

Court Appointment Is As Yet Insecure

CHICAGO — Leading Democrats had been alerted last week to the possibility that President Eisenhower would name Justice William Henry Hastie, the Negro serving with distinction on the U.S. Court of Appeals, to the Supreme Court.

They are therefore not surprised that he has named a member of the strong minority religion, Roman Catholic, to the vacancy caused by the retirement of Associate Justice Sherman Minton of Indiana. They suggest that the real surprise and shock will be to Republicans since the President's third choice for the high court, William Joseph Brennan Jr., associate justice of the New Jersey Supreme Court, is a lifelong Democrat and at least a moderate liberal to boot.

Justice Brennan is still a measurable distance from permanent tenure. Because the Senate is not in session and so cannot confirm him, he has a recess appointment completely at the mercy of the presidential returns Nov. 6 and with no assured path through the next Congress.

All the early reports on Justice Brennan from his home state are favorable. But at least three of his future high court colleagues privately admit they never heard of him and he is unknown to politicians and the general public.

The appointment therefore is being discussed in political terms only. It seems fair to say that the President looked for a jurist from one of the country's important minorities whose qualifications and character are excellent.

Democrats may claim more or less privately that the President could not find a qualified Catholic Republican and has only succeeded in proving that minorities find their greatest comfort in the Democratic party. But it could well be that the President preferred to name a Democrat at this point and considered the ire of some Republicans a price within his means.

For Republicans have nowhere else to go. And there are unmistakable signs that the public image of Eisenhower as the world hero, the great harmonizer, the chief of state above partisan politics, has become blurred.

These signs are accompanied by a dramatic upsurge in Democratic party loyalty. It is shown in the amazing string of Democratic victories since 1953, in registration, in organization activity.

Since Democrats traditionally command the big cities which may make the difference in the big states where elections are won and lost, the importance to the President of a dramatic appeal to the normally Democratic minorities of those cities is obvious.

Red Mass Murder In China Described

NEW YORK — Some of our best friends overseas, including Britain, rushed to recognize Red China diplomatically when the Communists took over. Other good friends, notably West Germany and Japan, are engaged in lively trade relations with the Chinese Red government.

This nation is providing a moral lesson for history by keeping Red China out of the U.N., as well as off the list of countries with which we have relations and understandings. Nobody has summed up our reasons better than former U.S. ambassador to Tokyo, Joseph C. Grew. In a booklet he called "Invasion Alert!", published by the Maran Co., 701 North Eutaw Street, Baltimore, and backed by the influential "Committee of One Million Against the Admission of Communist China into the United Nations" makes some astonishing revelations and charges:

"In 1938, Josef Stalin outlined his 'Formula for Dictators' to the Chinese ambassador in Moscow, Yang Chieh, for relay to Nationalist Chinese president Chiang Kai-Shek.

"The fundamental principle of gaining and maintaining control," he told Yang Chieh in effect, "is to completely eliminate opposition—all of it, down to and including all of its branches and roots.

"Keep on eliminating until there is no more opposition alive. The example set will prevent new opposition from arising. If you hear that a man is not loyal, if you have any uncertainties at all about his loyalty, kill the man. Kill his family, and his friends who might agree with him politically or be angry at his death.

"You can't afford the time to investigate. But you can't take chances. You will make some mistakes, of course. But you will eliminate opposition." Then Stalin continued:

"If President Chiang wants to establish firm control in China, tell him to kill four million people. Kill them as a matter of policy. He'll have no more trouble after that."

Chiang was horrified at this suggestion when it was relayed to him.

"But," continues Grew, "the Communists, plotting Chiang's downfall and enslavement of China, took it to heart. They found only one flaw in the Soviet master's strategy: he didn't think big enough.

"So when Gen. Mao Tse-Tung and foreign minister Chou En-Lai and police boss Lo Jui-Chiang came to power in Peiping they set to work killing—only, they multiplied Stalin's figures by five.

"Since 1948 the Chinese Reds, like animals who devour their young, have killed 20,000,000 Chinese—their own people. . . no war casualty toll in history approaches this. No purge, no pogrom, no revolution, no earthquake or flood or famine or holocaust compares. A murder list like that of the Peiping masters would wipe out Argentina or Burma completely from the face of the earth. It would eliminate all the people of Canada and Belgium. It would cut Britain's population in half."

October's moon was new last night in the flexed, barren and dry sign, Virgo. New moon always means first quarter and increase of light and power. Very early tomorrow morning it will enter the movable, airy and fruitful sign, Libra. And Friday morning at 7:20 it will enter the fixed, watery and exceedingly fruitful sign, Scorpio. Then Sunday afternoon near two o'clock, it will enter the flexed, fiery and barren sign, Sagittarius. So much for the moon's signs. Use them as you think best. Out here on Locust Lane we've perennials to move and a clean-up job to do before tulip-planting time. By all means select tulips now while you can get the varieties you desire, but do not put them into the ground until third quarter.

Colonial gardeners imported quantities of bulbs against great odds. Even the smoothest of voyages took three months or more during which time sea captains had little time or inclination to take care of perishable cargo. Often bulbs dried out or would rot from salt water and destruction by rats. Even so, a good percentage did survive. Here in part is a letter received in 1740 by John Bartram, the famous Pennsylvania botanist, from Peter Collinson of London describing a shipment thus:

"Inclosed is the mate's receipt

Ton-Mile Tax Will Help Farmers, Crosby Says

Former Gov. Robert Crosby, attorney for a group sponsoring the ton-mile tax proposal, told a Goehner Grange gathering Monday night the ton-mile tax would help, not hurt, farmers.

The proposal is being sponsored by the Committee for Better Roads through Fair Taxation. The issue is expected to go on the November ballot, depending on the outcome of a District Court suit in Lancaster County challenging validity of initiative petitions.

Crosby told the Goehner group, gathered in the Goehner Grange Hall, that investigations showed that "farmers were helped by a ton-mile tax requiring commercial carriers to contribute toward highway on the basis of mileage use."

Farm Groups Opposed

The ton-mile proposal has been opposed by several farm groups in the state, notably ranchers and cattle shippers. Petitions asking for the ton-mile proposal to be placed on the November ballot have been filed with the Secretary of State's office.

Crosby told the Grange group Nebraska must find the necessary matching funds to enable the state to proceed with a $168 million highway building program during the next three years.

The former governor said that with improved roads throughout the state, including the proposed Interstate Highway, farmers and ranchers will be brought closer to their markets.

10 Tons And Up

Advocating the ton-mile tax as the answer to Nebraska's highway problem, Crosby reminded "the proposed ton-mile tax applies only to trucks licensed to carry a net cargo of 10 or more tons." No trucks with farm licenses will be affected, he said. "The ton-mile tax is aimed at the interstate commercial truckers."

Crosby said "if Nebraska does not join the list of sister states (with a mileage tax in addition to gasoline and license fees) then it will punish its citizens unnecessarily."

The former governor noted that the ton-mile tax in Oregon was "vigorously supported by the Grange and by the Farm Bureau."

"Helps Farmers"

Crosby said "it is obvious that a ton-mile tax helps the farmers by shifting some of the tax burden from their backs to the foreign trucking combines and by making money available for a good farm-to-market road system."

Crosby denied the charge of truckers that they will pass the tax on to consumers. He said state truck rates are controlled by the Nebraska Railway Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"There is ample evidence," Crosby said, "that the truckers can absorb this small additional tax in their profits."

KEENE, N. H. (AP) — Harry M. Blood, 76, of Paradise, Calif., will have a chance to repay an old friend on election day Nov. 6.

Blood was traveling along a lonesome stretch of road in Tennessee 15 years ago when he noticed he was low on gas.

Unfamiliar with the territory, he flagged a passing car.

A lanky Tennessean stopped, went out of his way to obtain gas for Blood and refused payment.

"Just vote for me," he said. Blood, now visiting his son here, said he never forgot the name — Estes Kefauver.

Asked if he planned to vote for Kefauver, Blood laughed and replied "I'll vote for the best man."

$6 Million In State Winter Wheat In Soil Bank So Far

With the last week before the deadline for farmers signing up 1957 winter wheat for the soil bank's acreage reserve at hand, officials of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee reported that so far more than 10,000 farms have been approved and will receive nearly $6 million in payments.

The sign up deadline is Friday for wheat growers throughout the nation. Additional acres may be placed in the program after the sign up deadline if there are funds remaining from those originally allocated for winter wheat and if the farmer indicated his desire to enter "extra acres" at the time of his first sign up.

So far over 500 farmers in Nebraska have indicated they wish to add wheat acres to the reserve if they are allowed to. The maximum compensation for these "extra acres," according to a weekly report released by the State ASC office, is $356,188.95.

The exact number of wheat acres going into the acreage reserve, officials said, was 432,564.9 at the end of last week, the last complete summary available.

All in all, wheat growers in Nebraska had placed more than half of the total county wheat acreage allotment in the soil bank, the ASC said.

Throughout the state, sign up has been heaviest in those areas hit by drought. In some of the state's major wheat producing counties, such as Cheyenne County where only 440 acres have been banked and where moisture seems adequate, participation is especially light, the ASC noted.

In other counties, however, such as Boone, Buffalo, Butler, Clay, Colfax, Custer, Furnas, Greeley, Hitchcock, Howard, Jefferson, Merrick, Nance, Nuckolls, Polk, Thayer and Webster, sign up has been particularly heavy. All these counties have banked more than 5,000 acres, with Butler placing over 18,000 acres in the program.

An early ASC order to the effect that no county could place more than 60 per cent of its wheat allotment in the soil bank has been cancelled, the ASC said. The only limitation now is the availability of funds.

Ton-Mile Tax Will Help Farmers, Crosby Says

Former Gov. Robert Crosby, attorney for a group sponsoring the ton-mile tax proposal, told a Goehner Grange gathering Monday night the ton-mile tax would help, not hurt, farmers.

The proposal is being sponsored by the Committee for Better Roads through Fair Taxation. The issue is expected to go on the November ballot, depending on the outcome of a District Court suit in Lancaster County challenging validity of initiative petitions.

Crosby told the Goehner group, gathered in the Goehner Grange Hall, that investigations showed that "farmers were helped by a ton-mile tax requiring commercial carriers to contribute toward highway on the basis of mileage use."

Farm Groups Opposed

The ton-mile proposal has been opposed by several farm groups in the state, notably ranchers and cattle shippers. Petitions asking for the ton-mile proposal to be placed on the November ballot have been filed with the Secretary of State's office.

Crosby told the Grange group Nebraska must find the necessary matching funds to enable the state to proceed with a $168 million highway building program during the next three years.

The former governor said that with improved roads throughout the state, including the proposed Interstate Highway, farmers and ranchers will be brought closer to their markets.

10 Tons And Up

Advocating the ton-mile tax as the answer to Nebraska's highway problem, Crosby reminded "the proposed ton-mile tax applies only to trucks licensed to carry a net cargo of 10 or more tons." No trucks with farm licenses will be affected, he said. "The ton-mile tax is aimed at the interstate commercial truckers."

Crosby said "If Nebraska does not join the list of sister states (with a mileage tax in addition to gasoline and license fees) then it will punish its citizens unnecessarily."

The former governor noted that the ton-mile tax in Oregon was "vigorously supported by the Grange and by the Farm Bureau."

'Helps Farmers'

Crosby said "it is obvious that a ton-mile tax helps the farmers by shifting some of the tax burden from their backs to the foreign trucking combines and by making money available for a good farm-to-market road system."

Crosby denied the charge of truckers that they will pass the tax on to consumers. He said state truck rates are controlled by the Nebraska Railway Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"There is ample evidence," Crosby said, "that the truckers can absorb this small additional tax in their profits."

Even Loan Of Gas Won't Insure Vote

KEENE, N. H. (AP) — Harry M. Blood, 76, of Paradise, Calif., will have a chance to repay an old friend on election day Nov. 6.

Blood was traveling along a lone stretch of road in Tennessee 15 years ago when he noticed he was low on gas.

Unfamiliar with the territory, he flagged a passing car.

A lanky Tennessean stopped, went out of his way to obtain gas for Blood and refused payment.

"Just vote for me," he said. Blood, now visiting his son here, said he never forgot the name — Estes Kefauver.

Asked if he planned to vote for Kefauver, Blood laughed and replied "I'll vote for the best man." P. S.—Blood always has been a Republican.

Minimum Housing Proposition Praised, Condemned

First Public Hearing Held

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

The city's proposed minimum standards housing ordinance was both praised and condemned during the first public hearing held by the City Council on the measure.

Urging passage of the ordinance were Mrs. Jessica Epstone, representing the Lincoln-Lancaster County Community Advisory Health Council; Mrs. Fred Putney and Attorney Chauncey Barney.

Barney pointed out that the ordinance, in addition to its own merit, is an essential prerequisite for any urban renewal program.

Minimum Protection
Mrs. Epstone said the ordinance gives only "minimum protection" for the health and welfare of the people.

The major objection to the ordinance was its nonretroactive feature. As it now stands, the ordinance applies to all existing structures except for Article 8.

Article 8 governs space, height and ventilation in dwellings and dwelling units and forbids the use of cellar space as a living area.

Those who opposed the ordinance on this ground wanted a stronger nonretroactive clause and wanted all or additional parts of the ordinance made nonretroactive.

30% Provision Hit
Also criticized was a provision whereby a nonconforming property must be made to conform if it is altered or remodeled to an extent equal in value to 30 per cent of the county assessed valuation of the property.

It was claimed further that the ordinance was unconstitutional, was a duplication of existing laws and that it destroyed the rights of tenants and landlords to contract.

Among those objecting to the ordinance were Attorney Leo Bartunek, Attorney Miles Johnston, representing the Lincoln Board of Realtors; Attorney Robert V. Pelt, representing Leon Neisky; Lambert Eitel, representing the Lincoln Industrial Labor Council; AFL-CIO; Mrs. Winifred Lewis and Attorney Lester Dunn, representing the Corryell apartments.

The Council has taken the ordinance under study and will consider it again at next Monday's meeting. No other public hearings have been scheduled.

2 Handy System Stores Purchased By Martin Firm

Two of the Handy System Stores in Lincoln have been sold to the G. W. Martin Company of Grand Island.

The Handy System will continue to operate its store at 13th and F, according to its president, Walt Vestekka of Lincoln.

Stores sold to the Martin Co. are located at 17th and Washington and at Cotner and Leighton in Bethany.

Martin, president of the G. W. Martin Co., Van Eaton-Martin Co., and holder of the O. P. Skaggs food chain franchise in Nebraska, said all personnel of the acquired stores will be retained.

Extensive remodeling will be done at the 17th and Washington location, including the addition of parking facilities for 40 cars.

Martin said future expansion will depend upon location opportunities. The Van Eaton-Martin Co. recently announced plans for a new supermarket at 48th and Van Dorn.

Financial arrangements in the transfer of business interests by Handy System was not disclosed.

Grateful Donna Gets Certificate

Miss Donna Scott of Kearney, receives the first certificate awarded in Nebraska enabling her to attend college under the War Orphans Program enacted by Congress. L. W. Park, chief of the Benefits and Facilities Section of the Vocational Rehabilitation and Education Department of the Veterans Administration presented the certificate. Donna's mother, Mrs. Mary Scott of Kearney, is pictured at the left. (Star Photo).

First Nebraska 'War Orphan' Receives Certificate For Free College Education

The first Nebraskan to receive a certificate enabling her to attend college under the War Orphans Education Program is Miss Donna Scott, 18, of Kearney.

The daughter of Mrs. Mary Scott of Kearney, and the late Dwight Scott, Donna has been registered at St. Joseph's Creighton Memorial Hospital at Omaha in the School of Nursing.

Ashley Westmoreland of Lincoln, Veterans Administration Regional Office Manager, said more than 100 children of deceased veterans residing in Nebraska will become eligible this year for government aid to further their education under the program.

954 To Be Eligible
They are children 18 to 23 years old whose veteran-parent died of injuries or diseases resulting from military service in World War I, World War II or the Korean conflict. Westmoreland said an estimated 954 young people in Nebraska eventually will become eligible for VA educational assistance under the program.

Donna's father, who served in the U.S. Navy in the Pacific Theater during World War II, died in 1947 as a result of a service-incurred disability.

A graduate of Kearney High School last May, Miss Scott said she has wanted to be a nurse since she was a little girl and stated she was "very grateful for the opportunity to receive this education."

"Wonderful Thing"
She commented further, "When you stop to think of the girls and boys like me who will be able to go on to college as a result of this program, you realize what a wonderful thing our government has done."

Donna's mother is no less grateful for this opportunity opened to her daughter and other young people in the same circumstances.

Mrs. Scott said, "We're so thrilled that Donna is now able to attend college. We're proud we live in such a wonderful country with a free government which provides this opportunity."

Under the War Orphans Program, grants will include tuition for up to 36 months of training and a monthly subsistence allowance of $110.

The program starting at 7:30 p.m. will feature Governor Victor E. Anderson, Republican; Frank Sorrell, Democrat, and George L. Morris, Independent.

The dinner will be held at the Chamber of Commerce Building at 208 No. 11th at 6:30 p.m. Those who wish to attend only the program should be at the Chamber Building at 7:30 p.m.

Get-Out-The-Vote Dinner Features Three Candidates
Nebraska's three gubernatorial candidates will be the featured speakers Tuesday night at a Get-Out-The-Vote dinner sponsored by the Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Minimum Housing Proposition Praised, Condemned

First Public Hearing Held

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

The city's proposed minimum standards housing ordinance was both praised and condemned during the first public hearing held by the City Council on the measure.

Urging passage of the ordinance were Mrs. Jessica Epstone, representing the Lincoln-Lancaster County Community Advisory Health Council; Mrs. Fred Putney and Attorney Chauncey Barney.

Barney pointed out that the ordinance, in addition to its own merit, is an essential prerequisite for any urban renewal program.

Mrs. Epstone said the ordinance gives only "minimum protection" for the health and welfare of the people.

The major objection to the ordinance was its nonretroactive feature. As it now stands, the ordinance applies to all existing structures except for Article 8.

Article 8 governs space, height and ventilation in dwellings and dwelling units and forbids the use of cellar space as a living area.

Those who opposed the ordinance on this ground wanted a stronger nonretroactive clause and wanted all or additional parts of the ordinance made nonretroactive.

The ordinance was also attacked for its lack of clarity and the authority it gives the health officer to enter private homes at reasonable times for purposes of making inspections.

30% Provision Hit
Also criticized was a provision whereby a nonconforming property must be made to conform if it is altered or remodeled to an extent equal in value to 30 percent of the county assessed valuation of the property.

It was claimed further that the ordinance was unconstitutional, was a duplication of existing laws and that it destroyed the rights of tenants and landlords to contract.

Among those objecting to the ordinance were Attorney Leo Bartunek, Attorney Miles Johnston, representing the Lincoln Board of Realtors; Attorney Robert Van Pelt, representing Leon Nefsky; Lambert Eitel, representing the Lincoln Industrial Labor Council, AFL-CIO; Mrs. Winifred Lewis and Attorney Lester Dunn, representing the Corvett apartments.

The Council has taken the ordinance under study and will consider it again at next Monday's meeting. No other public hearings have been scheduled.

2 Handy System Stores Purchased By Martin Firm

Two of the Handy System Stores in Lincoln have been sold to the G. W. Martin Company of Grand Island.

The Handy System will continue to operate its store at 13th and F, according to its president, Walt Vesteka of Lincoln.

Stores sold to the Martin Co. are located at 17th and Washington and at Cotner and Leighton in Bethany.

Martin, president of the G. W. Martin Co., Van Eaton-Martin Co., and holder of the O. P. Skaggs food chain franchise in Nebraska, said all personnel of the acquired stores will be retained.

Extensive remodeling will be done at the 17th and Washington location, including the addition of parking facilities for 40 cars.

Martin said future expansion will depend upon location opportunities. The Van Eaton-Martin Co. recently announced plans for a new supermarket at 48th and Van Dorn.

Financial arrangements in the transfer of business interests by Handy System was not disclosed.

First Nebraska 'War Orphan' Receives Certificate For Free College Education

The first Nebraskan to receive a certificate enabling her to attend college under the War Orphans Education Program is Miss Donna Scott, 18, of Kearney.

The daughter of Mrs. Mary Scott of Kearney, and the late Dwight Scott, Donna has registered at St. Joseph's Creighton Memorial Hospital at Omaha in the School of Nursing.

Ashley Westmoreland of Lincoln, Veterans Administration Regional Office Manager, said more than 100 children of deceased veterans residing in Nebraska will become eligible this year for government aid to further their education under the program.

954 To Be Eligible
They are children 18 to 23 years old whose veteran-parent died of injuries or diseases resulting from military service in World War I, World War II or the Korean conflict. Westmoreland said an estimated 954 young people in Nebraska last May, Miss Scott said, she has wanted to be a nurse since she was a little girl and stated she was "very grateful for the opportunity to receive this education."

'Wonderful Thing'
She commented further, "When you stop to think of the girls and boys like me who will be able to go on to college as a result of this program, you realize what a wonderful thing our government has done."

Donna's mother is no less grateful for this opportunity opened to her daughter and other young people in the same circumstances. Mrs. Scott said, "We're so thrilled that Donna is now able to attend college. We're proud we live in such a wonderful country with a free government which provides this opportunity."

Under the War Orphans Program, grants will include tuition for up to 36 months of training and a monthly subsistence allowance of $110.

The program starting at 7:30 p.m. will feature Governor Victor E. Anderson, Republican; Frank Sorrell, Democrat, and George L. Morris, Independent.

The dinner will be held at the Chamber of Commerce Building at 208 No. 11th at 6:30 p. m. Those who wish to attend only the program should be at the Chamber Building at 7:30 p. m.

Study, Talks Set On City Ambulances

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

The City Council has appointed a committee of Councilmen Ray Osborn and Pat Ash to meet with other city officials and the ambulance services to solve the ambulance operation problem.

With Osborn and Ash will be Welfare and Safety Director Emmett Junge and Police Chief Joseph Carroll.

Last Friday, Junge advised the services at the Council's direction that they would be given traffic tickets when their vehicles were involved in accidents in which they were at fault.

The services interpreted this as meaning they could provide no emergency service.

On Saturday, however, Junge advised the services to continue operating as they have in the past until the matter could be given further study.

Junge explained to the Council that it was the city's desire to give the ambulances all possible help in getting patients to a hospital as quickly and safely as possible. However, he said, there is seldom need for excessive speed in going through red lights or stop signs.

According to Osborn, formerly welfare and safety director, "it would be the biggest mistake the Council ever made to classify ambulances as emergency vehicles."

"Even our own fire and police vehicles should be slowed down on their emergency calls. With air conditioning and winter driving, more and more cars are being driven with their windows closed and the drivers cannot hear the sirens."

High School Issue May Go On Ballot

MORRILL, Neb.—Superintendent of Schools Henry Hayden said a $285,000 bond issue for construction of a new high school here may be voted on this year.

The Board of Education and members of an advisory committee proposed a new building.

Pandora-Type Box

SINGAPORE—The thief who made off with a box from a parked automobile is in for a surprise when he examines his loot. A student told police the box he lost contained a human skeleton.

Wool Supports Same For '57

WASHINGTON—The Agriculture Department Monday announced a support price of 62 cents a pound on wool and 70 cents on mohair for the year beginning April 1, 1957. These are the same support prices which were in effect for the 1955 and 1956 marketing years.

The 1954 National Wool Act directs the secretary to support the price of wool at an incentive level he finds necessary to encourage an annual production of 300 million pounds.

The program went into effect April 1, 1955. Payments this summer totaled about 55 million dollars and made up the difference between the 62 cent support level and average wool prices which have declined since mid-1954.

Lands On Road

REYKJAVIK, Iceland—An American Dakota C47 transport plane with 13 men made an emergency landing on a highway 1½ miles north of Keflavik.

The pilot said that when the plane was a half an hour's flying distance from Keflavik both engines stopped.

The plane was damaged but none aboard was injured.

CONCORD, N. H.—From now on, Secretary of State Enoch D. Fuller (R) said Monday, all official New Hampshire literature including election ballots will designate the state's minority party as "Democratic"—not "Democrat."

The Democratic State Convention had passed a resolution asking state officials to cease and desist from using the appellation "Democrat party."

This year's presidential primary ballots carried the designation "Democrat party."

Study, Talks Set On City Ambulances

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

The City Council has appointed a committee of Councilmen Ray Osborn and Pat Ash to meet with other city officials and the ambulance services to solve the ambulance operation problem.

With Osborn and Ash will be Welfare and Safety Director Emmett Junge and Police Chief Joseph Carroll.

Last Friday, Junge advised the services at the Council's direction that they would be given traffic tickets when their vehicles were involved in accidents in which they were at fault.

The services interpreted this as meaning they could provide no emergency service.

On Saturday, however, Junge advised the services to continue operating as they have in the past until the matter could be given further study.

Junge explained to the Council that it was the city's desire to give the ambulances all possible help in getting patients to a hospital as quickly and safely as possible. However, he said, there is seldom need for excessive speed in going through red lights or stop signs.

According to Osborn, formerly welfare and safety director, "it would be the biggest mistake the Council ever made to classify ambulances as emergency vehicles."

"Even our own fire and police vehicles should be slowed down on their emergency calls. With air conditioning and winter driving, more and more cars are being driven with their windows closed and the drivers cannot hear the sirens."

High School Issue May Go On Ballot

MORRILL, Neb. (AP)—Superintendent of Schools Henry Hayen said a $285,000 bond issue for construction of a new high school here may be voted on this year.

The Board of Education and members of an advisory committee proposed a new building.

Pandora-Type Box

SINGAPORE (AP)—The thief who made off with a box from a parked automobile is in for a surprise when he examines his loot. A student told police the box he lost contained a human skeleton.

Wool Supports Same For '57

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department Monday announced a support price of 62 cents a pound on wool and 70 cents on mohair for the year beginning April 1, 1957. These are the same support prices which were in effect for the 1955 and 1956 marketing years.

The 1954 National Wool Act directs the secretary to support the price of wool at an incentive level he finds necessary to encourage an annual production of 300 million pounds.

The program went into effect April 1, 1955. Payments this summer totaled about 55 million dollars and made up the difference between the 62 cent support level and average wool prices which have declined since mid-1954.

Lands On Road

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP)—An American Dakota C47 transport plane with 13 men made an emergency landing on a highway 1 1/2 miles north of Keflavik.

The pilot said that when the plane was a half an hour's flying distance from Keflavik both engines stopped.

The plane was damaged but none aboard was injured.

NOT 'DEMOCRAT'—IT'S

CONCORD, N. H. (AP)—From now on, Secretary of State Enoch D. Fuller (R) said Monday, all official New Hampshire literature including election ballots will designate the state's minority party as "Democratic"—not "Democrat."

The Democratic State Convention had passed a resolution asking state officials to cease and desist from using the appellation "Democrat party."

'DEMOCRATIC' PARTY

"Frankly, I don't know how it happened," Fuller said. "It was an error."

Ag Science Must Attract Youths—Shaw

Mitchell's New Lab Dedicated

MITCHELL, Neb. — If American agriculture is to meet needs of the future, young people must be attracted into agricultural science and given the necessary facilities and tools.

That is what Byron T. Shaw, administrator of the Agricultural Research Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., told those attending dedication of the new administration building and laboratory at the Scotts Bluff Experiment Station here Monday.

The new structure, which is located at the Experiment Station five miles east of Mitchell, is the latest building to be completed by the University of Nebraska under its share of the current 11 mill state institutional building program, Chancellor Clifford M. Hardin stated. It cost $165,000.

Latest Facilities
"To the scientists located here the building means up-to-date research facilities on a par with any in the state. To the farmers of this area, it means an intensified effort on their behalf in the improvement of farm efficiency and farm living," Shaw commented.

The pattern of co-operation between state and federal agricultural research established by the Hatch Act in 1887 has developed over the years into a close-knit research program, Shaw said. The Nebraska Agricultural Experiment Station, with its state-wide system of substations is an integral part of the national program, he added.

Dean W. V. Lambert of the College of Agriculture at Lincoln, said "completion of this fine laboratory and office building represents another milestone in the efforts of the University of Nebraska to strengthen its research program dealing with agricultural problems of western Nebraska."

"Powerful Tool"
"Research is a powerful tool," Dean Lambert continued. "Someone has called it 'the powerhouse of agriculture.' It has been extremely important in helping to make American agriculture the most efficient in the world. What is done in the research laboratories today and tomorrow will influence to a large degree the kind of an agriculture we have 20, 30, and 50 years from now."

Other speakers on the program included Dr. Earle G. Johnson, Grand Island; Ed Hoyt, Lincoln; Phil Sheldon, Scottsbluff; Lionel Harris, superintendent of the station; Lyman H. Andrews, Denver; and Sen. Amos Morrison, Scottsbluff.

Children With Candle Admit Setting Blaze

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. — Police Chief Joe Bosler said Monday five children had told him how a lighted birthday candle had set the fire which destroyed a downtown Grand Island building Sunday night.

The spectacular fire raged out of control for 1 1/2 hours. It destroyed the Glovera Ballroom, retail outlet of the Dreier Home Bakery, Miller Roofing Co., and a warehouse.

Bosler said the children, 3 to 11 years of age, had been playing with matches and candles from a birthday cake. He said they related they had gone to the movies and afterwards had gone behind the building and were lighting the candles.

Bosler said the children said one of the lighted candles fell where it could not be retrieved. They tried to put out the embryo blaze, then became scared and fled, he said.

Bosler said the alarm was turned in by Steve Bennett, 10, who said he saw the smoke and the running children. He tried to put the fire out, but was unsuccessful.

Two youngsters who belong to Grand Island's "junior police league of honor" learned the names of those involved, the chief said.

The children and their parents met with Bosler Monday. No charges had been filed.

Fire damage was tentatively estimated at $200,000.

The baby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wiginton of Omaha, was killed when the car driven by her father and one driven by Ellen M. Fitting, 33, of Lincoln collided on Highway 6, about five miles east of Ashland. The baby was riding on her mother's lap.

The State Safety Patrol said the cars smashed head-on on a shoulder when the drivers of both cars tried to avoid the other. The Lincoln woman said she had applied her brakes to avoid hitting cars stopped in front of her and the car veered across the road.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiginton were reported in good condition in an Omaha hospital. Miss Fitting was treated at a Lincoln hospital and released.

Newell was killed in an accident on a county road west of Julian. He was riding in a car with Charles G. Miller of Nebraska City which rolled over two or three times and then righted itself. Miller was hospitalized.

Well, I see by the ads that the mink season is upon us. "She'll look alluring in mink," says the advertiser briskly. Gents, hustle down and purchase a bit of mink or be a short sport.

Where mink got his elegant reputation, I will never know.

A mink is a moody sort of beast with moody habits. Off-hand I do not think it is even a State animal for any State. It has no reputation for courage or thrift. Its only job that I can see is to make a mink coat.

Even there it takes a couple of dozen to do the job.

Ladies do not give a hoot about all this. They wrap themselves up in mink coats and feel wonderful.

Once I visited a mink farm. The owner said if it were not that it was an honest sort of living, he would give the whole thing up.

He said mink were harder to raise than four aces. He even had to ask the airlines to quit flying over his mink farm. Retoute and ask the passengers not to stamp up and down the aisles.

It appears when mink are upset by airplanes, they gobble up the young mink.

A mink will be sound asleep in a souly sort of way. The airplane flies overhead and wakes him up.

"What's in the icebox?" he says nudging Mrs. Mink in her mink coat.

"Just the left-over young 'uns," she says.

"Well pass me the tenderest," says the mink. "I feel like a snack."

Before you know it the mink has snacked up a whole coat.

This is a poor quality animal to wear around with pride.

Even so, mink coats sell like blue serge suits at graduation time. And ladies without a mink fly into a rage when they see another lady gussied up in this high-toned fur.

A good many years ago, beaver were high in the animal kingdom. The beaver were made into hats. That is what I read in the books.

This makes a little more sense. Nevertheless I hear they made pretty good hats. But you cannot sell a beaver to anybody today.

The mink has replaced all sorts of more likeable animals. It has replaced seals, squirrels and ostrich feather boas.

With no press agent and very little talent, it has become the king of beasts. Living on high-class ranches and getting airlines to move their planes over so it will not disturb their sleep.

It has become a symbol of affection when actually it is a creature of appetite.

Considering all this, I think we should revalue the mink trade. It would be all right to wear mink coats. But I do not think they should be placed in a category that makes them a hundred times better than, say, bears.

It would seem like a good idea to make bearskin coats the height of fashion for awhile. Bears are nice animals. Fond of their children and sociable in their habits.

Besides which it only takes one bear to make maybe a couple of coats. You would get no objections to that from me. Maybe a few objections from the bears.

To Career In Michigan

Career girl, 1956—and that's Miss Sarah Carveth, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Carveth, who leaves on Saturday for Grand Rapids, Mich., where she has accepted a position as a dental hygienist.

Miss Carveth attended the University of Nebraska, where she is a member of Alpha Phi sorority, and received her Bachelor of Science degree in Dental Hygiene from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor last June.

THE STAR IN SUBURBIA

The whirligig of social activity still continues amidst our Eastside neighbors, it would seem. This Tuesday morning we find news of a surprise baby shower, a bridge club get-together, dinner parties, an evening of bowling fun, and house guests.

First, we want to welcome Mrs. Keith Mauck home from a sojourn at the hospital, and to wish her a speedy recovery.

The round of parties, past and present, seems to make the biggest news in suburbia this week. Last Tuesday, Mrs. James Killely was surprised indeed when she arrived at the home of Mrs. James Smothers only to learn that a dessert luncheon and baby shower in her honor was well under way. The hostesses, Mrs. Smothers, Mrs. Robert Haston and Mrs. James Reeves, and their 40 guests, certainly disproved the theory that women can't keep a secret.

On Saturday evening, Col. and Mrs. Ervin Wursten were host and hostess at an outdoor steak fry. Col. and Mrs. Wursten and their six guests spent the afternoon hours informally.

We learned this morning that Saturday evening also was the date for an interesting bowling party at the new Hollywood Bowl. The party included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Askey, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Conley, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Thiel, Capt. and Mrs. Lloyd Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Urbom.

Great Books Group To Meet

The first year group of the Great Books Series will meet at 7:30 o'clock, Tuesday evening, at the South Street Branch library for a discussion on the Declaration of Independence.

AROUND THE TOWN Wedding In December

CAST AN eagle eye on the town this morning to see who was doing what, and if there was any extra-special activity about. There have been no drastic changes since yesterday—other than a new name on the list of December brides-elect—but you probably already have seen her picture in the upper right-hand corner. And since we have mentioned brides-elect we think we shall begin the morning's work with news of courtships for Miss Joyce Johnson whose marriage to William Stanford Olson will be solemnized on Nov. 23.

Complimenting Miss Johnson on Wednesday evening will be Mrs. Sam Zimmerman, who has invited the mothers of Miss Johnson's Alpha Chi Omega classmates for an informal evening and a kitchen shower for the bride-to-be.

Next Saturday Miss Johnson again will be an honoree when Mrs. Carroll Pauler entertains at a brunch at her home. The guest list will include a group of Alpha Chi Omegas.

AAUW Group

An organization meeting for the new ceramic art interest group of the Lincoln Branch, American Association of University Women, will be held at 8 o'clock Thursday evening at the Ceramic Center Studio, 1035 G.

Members who are interested in joining the group may contact Mrs. E. James Brownson, group chairman, 3-6465, for further information.

THE soon-to-be bride was kept busy with parties last week, also, when Miss Elsie Ford Piper and her sister, Miss Jennie Lou Piper were hostesses at their home last Wednesday evening when their guests included the members of the executive board of Mortar Board alumnae. Miss Johnson was presented with a hostess gift.

And honoring Miss Johnson at dinner at late week were Dr. and Mrs. Glenn Warren who also paid farewell courtesy to their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Messner, who left during the week-end for their new home in California.

WE OPENED our guest book to find the exciting news that Mrs. Wait Weaver and her young son Daniel Theop Weaver, have arrived from Cleveland, O., to spend several days in Lincoln.

Mrs. Weaver and young Danny accompanied Mrs. Weaver's mother, Mrs. O. V. Calhoun, who had been spending two weeks in Cleveland as the guest of her son-in-law and daughter.

THEN we discovered that Mrs. Richard Irey (Margaret Cullinan) will be coming from San Francisco the approaching week-end to spend some time as the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Cullinan, and her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Cullinan.

SOMEONE told us that Dr. and Mrs. Harold Morgan will arrive home today from Ann Arbor, Mich., where they have been spending a few days visiting their daughter, Miss Cynthia Morgan, who is attending the University of Michigan.

THERE'S considerable news from the Talcum Powder set this morning. Just learned that Pi Beta Phi had not one—but two brand new legacies who arrived Monday, Oct. 1, at Lincoln General Hospital.

The young ladies, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Grimm, have been named Jacqueline Jo and Carolyn Jill—but we'll wager that the names eventually will dwindle to Jack and Jill.

Mrs. Grimm is the former Genene Mitchell, daughter of Mrs. Don Mitchell of Omaha, and the late Mr. Mitchell—and Pi Phi at Nebraska. The paternal nal grandmother is Mrs. J. J. Gorman of Wilber.

THEN came news from Greenville, Miss., and it involved the birth of a daughter, Leslie DeAnn, to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tobin Jr., on Thursday, Sept. 27. Mrs. Tobin is the former Donna Borggaard, daughter of Mrs. W. D. Borggaard, and Alpha Chi Omega at Nebraska. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tobin of Tekamah are the paternal grandparents.

THE third announcement concerning new members of the Bassinet Club has to do with the arrival of Miss Susan Elizabeth Nightingale on Monday, Sept. 24, at Lincoln General Hospital. The young lady is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. Richard Nightingale, and we suspect she already has been signed up for a Greek letter career some 17 years hence. Her mother is an Alpha Omicron Pi at the University of Kansas.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Nightingale of Champagne, Ill., are the paternal grandparents, and the maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Schultz of Osage, Kan.

NU Law Wives Will Meet

The University of Nebraska Law Wives will hold a business meeting at 8 o'clock, Tuesday evening, at Rosa Bouton Hall on the University of Nebraska campus. Hostesses for the social hour will be Mrs. Bill Lorenson and Mrs. D. Caporale.

A Guest From Norway

To Career In Michigan

Career girl, 1956—and that's Miss Sarah Carveth, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Carveth, who leaves on Saturday for Grand Rapids, Mich., where she has accepted a position as a dental hygienist.

Miss Carveth attended the University of Nebraska, where she is a member of Alpha Phi sorority, and received her Bachelor of Science degree in Dental Hygiene from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor last June.

THE STAR IN SUBURBIA

The whirligig of social activity still continues amidst our East-ridge neighbors, it would seem. This Tuesday morning we find news of a surprise baby shower, a bridge club get-together, dinner parties, an evening of bowling fun, and house guests.

First, we want to welcome Mrs. Keith Mauck home from a sojourn at the hospital, and to wish her a speedy recovery.

The round of parties, past and present, seems to make the biggest news in suburbia this week. Last Tuesday, Mrs. James Killely was surprised indeed when she arrived at the home of Mrs. James Smothers only to learn that a dessert luncheon and baby shower in her honor was well under way. The hostesses, Mrs. Smothers, Mrs. Robert Haston and Mrs. James Reeves, and their 40 guests, certainly disproved the theory that women can't keep a secret.

On Saturday evening, Col. and Mrs. Ervin Wursten were host and hostess at an outdoor steak fry. Col. and Mrs. Wursten and their six guests spent the after-dinner hours informally.

day evening will be Mrs. Clarence Gordon who will be hostess to the members of her bridge club at a dessert supper at her home. The evening, of course, will be spent playing cards.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jenkins will have the welcome mat out this week end in anticipation of the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. John Bruse of Blair. Saturday plans for the foursome includes the Nebraska - Iowa State game followed by a dinner party at the Jenkins' home.

Arriving in Eastbridge on Wednesday will be Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Newman who will be the overnight guests of their granddaughter, Mrs. Robert Kinsey, and Mr. Kinsey, en route to their home at North Platte. The Newmans have been visiting their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert R. Newman, at La Grange, Ill.

A Halloween party seems to be in order on Oct. 13, when Mr. and Mrs. Robert Loisel and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pappas will entertain a group of guests. The invitations to the Pappas residence were very clever and the original lines bear repeating: "A Halloween party—be my guest, a costume will be the dress; just bring yourselves, then we'll dine, 8 o'clock is the bewitching time".

A Guest From Norway

There is more than just the usual activity that accompanies a wedding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loren O. Graham — Their daughter, Miss Pat Graham becomes the bride of Gunnar Green later this month, and the festivities have been numerous.

But perhaps the most exciting moment in the Graham household was the arrival of Mrs. Green's mother, Mrs. Lill Green of Oslo, Norway, last week.

In the picture we find the bride-elect and Mrs. Green looking at a gift sent from Mrs. Green's friends in Oslo to the bride, and Mrs. Green is explaining to her daughter-in-law-to-be, the fine points of Norwegian handicraft.

Early Fall Wedding

The altar of St. Paul's Lutheran Church at Hardy was lighted by white candles and decorated with arrangements of white and lavender chrysanthemums for the wedding of Miss Florence Ann Hobelman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Hobelman, and Joseph F. Calder, son of J. J. Calder, all of Hardy, on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 9. In the presence of 300 guests, the Rev. Elvin Hansen read the lines of the 3 o'clock ceremony, and Miss Shirley Magee, organist, played the wedding music. Miss Magee also accompanied the vocal soloist, Robert Leigh of Hardy.

The attendants, who wore alike frocks of lavender taffeta fashioned in the danseuse length with full overskirts of white, starched lace, were Mrs. Burdette Hanson of Superior, as the matron of honor; the bridesmaid, Miss Marilyn Calder of Hardy, sister of the bridegroom; and the bridesmatrons, Mrs. Harold Braun, Superior, and Mrs. Clarence Behrends, Webber, Kan. They wore wrist-mitts and wide-brimmed hats of the white lace, and carried nosegays of carnations shading from white and pale lavender to the deeper purple tones. Lighting the candles were Miss Cheri Fischer of Brea, Calif., and Miss Judy Behrends, Webber, Kan., and the flower girls were Miss Kathy Hobelman, Elk Creek, and Miss Janet Jo Braun, Superior.

Dean Hobson of Hardy served as best man, and the ushers were Ron Gleason, Hastings; W. H. Hobelman, Elk Creek; and James Calder, Hardy. Richard Behrends, Webber, Kan., and Steve Calder, Hardy, were the ringbearers.

The bride chose for her wedding a gown of traditional white satin and lace. Shallow scallops of lace bordered the décolletage of the lace-over-satin bodice, which was designed with long, tapered sleeves, and the satin skirt flared into fullness beneath a deep peplum of the lace which extended at the back into a chapel train. Her illusion veil was held by a lace coronet patterned with seed pearls and sequins, and she carried a white Bible marked with a single white orchid.

Following the reception at the Hardy Community Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Calder left for a honeymoon trip to northern Minnesota.

They will make their home at 6285 Aylesworth in Lincoln, where the bridegroom is a student at the University of Nebraska. He formerly attended Nebraska Wesleyan University and is a member of Crescent fraternity and Sigma Phi Sigma honorary.

Explosion Kills Two Sailors, Wounds 11

... ABOARD DESTROYER NEAR FRENCH COAST

LANDSTUHL, Germany (INS)—A hospital plane carrying 10 explosion-injured sailors from the Mediterranean landed in Germany early Tuesday. Aboard was the body of one of the two Navy men fatally injured by the blast.

The second victim of the explosion of a shell during target practice aboard the destroyer J. R. Pierce in the Mediterranean died an hour before the plane touched down at Landstuhl.

The Navy reported one sailor was killed and 12 injured when a shell exploded in the barrel of a five inch gun. However, only 11 men, including the one who died en route, were aboard the hospital plane when it landed, according to an Air Force spokesman.

Eight of the injured sailors were carried from the plane in stretchers and two walked off the aircraft. All appeared badly shaken and their faces showed powder burns and other minor injuries.

(By Washington, the Navy Department said that of the injured, three were critical and five in serious conditions.)

The injured were taken ashore following the explosion at Villefranche, 6th Fleet base in the Mediterranean, and were flown to Germany.

One of the injured sailors had a leg torn off by the blast. Another appeared seriously burned.

Names of the sailors were being withheld pending notification of the next of kin.

Inquiry Planned

City Gets $45,000 For LAFB Land

The City Council has accepted a $45,000 payment by the federal government for land condemned by it and now the site of the Air Force Base housing project.

A total of 149.3 acres of land were condemned for the housing project. The area lies west of the Base and at the south edge of Haskerville.

The $45,000 will go into the city's aviation bond sinking fund. There is still $180,000 in bonds outstanding on the 1941 issue of $300,000 for the purchase of the airport property.

Sidewalks Ordered On C, 40th Streets

Resolutions have been approved by the City Council ordering sidewalks constructed in front of certain lots on the north side of C from 40th to 44th and the west side of 40th from A to Smith.

The walks will be constructed by the city with the cost assessed against abutting properties.

75 miles south of Villefranche when the shell exploded.

The flagship cruiser Salem was nearby and sent three doctors, by helicopter, aboard the destroyer. The wounded were quickly transferred to the Salem and then to Villefranche where 12 ambulances took them to Nice airport

$5,000 To Get Charter Aid Is Approved

The City Council has approved an expenditure of up to $5,000 by the Charter Revision Committee for the hiring of outside expert consultants.

The Committee is expected to approve a contract with the Public Service Administration of Chicago to obtain the help it wants. The PSA has advised the Committee that it would act as consultants for a period of two months for a maximum fee of $4,200.

A non-profit organization, the PSA charges for only its own expenses. The actual fee may be below $4,200 but not above that figure.

The PSA would send a member of the firm to reside in Lincoln and advise the Committee. His work would consist of analyzing existing charter decisions and governmental operations, guiding the Committee into decisions on suggested changes and working on a draft of proposed revisions.

The Committee will meet this Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. at the City Hall at which time the consultant service will be considered. At that meeting also the Committee will hear from city departmental heads of any charter changes they think should be made.

'Work-Right' Arguments Presented

Oral arguments were presented the Nebraska Supreme Court Monday on the question of how the U.S. Supreme Court's recent decision upholding the union shop agreements in the railroad industry should be interpreted.

Conflicting motions are before the court in this connection.

The court took the matter under advisement after the brief verbal presentations Monday morning in the fall opening session of the state court.

The case was brought originally by five Union Pacific Railroad employees who sued the railroad and 17 unions to prevent enforcement of an agreement making union membership necessary to holding a railroad job.

The U. S. Supreme Court ruled against the plaintiff employees, holding that the Federal Railway Labor Act authorizes union shop agreements in the railroad industry even through the union shop is illegal under state laws.

The Supreme Court sent the case back to Nebraska for proceedings "not inconsistent" with its decision.

The five plaintiff employees now have asked the State Supreme Court to interpret the U. S. Court's decision to mean that the employees need pay only the dues, fees and assessments needed to support the union in the realm of collective bargaining, and need not apply for union membership.

The unions, however, contended that nowhere in the U.S. court's ruling is there any "intimation" that requirements "can be satisfied by anything less than the acquisition and retention of union membership."

Here's How Ohio State's Line Co-Operated To Stall Nebraska Huskers

same time Ohio State's other guard Aurelis Thomas (64) moves into gap. The second shot (center) shows Brown hitting the line as Murphy occupies Parker. Thomas (his leg

as Thomas brings Brown to earth after a two-yard gain. Murphy and Parker are still at it. Moral: You can block an All American, but look out for somebody else. (Star Photos.)

West Point To Top In Class C Ratings As Deshler Falls; Crete Still B Leader

By RON GIBSON
Star Sports Staff Writer

West Point is the new Class C leader in The Star's high school football ratings as Seward Concordia tumbled last week's leader, Deshler, from the pinnacle.

West Point, second behind Deshler last week, thrashed Winsor 34-0 and took command as Concordia surprised Deshler 26-13.

Crete cemented its Class B leadership with an impressive 33-0 win over Nebraska City a Class A team. There were few changes in the Class B chart—York is the only new team in the ratings—but the Class C list underwent a major overhauling.

After three weeks of play there are few standouts in Classes B and kept the Cards out of the top perch in The Star's ratings.

Coach Henry Nissen's Stanton team, kingpin of the western half of the Husker League, is rated second. This is a jump of three places from last week's fifth spot. Stanton belted Pilger 40-7. Stanton hasn't been pressed yet.

Bellevue, second last week, is now third. The Chieftains gave Omaha Westside—a good Class A team—a battle before bowing 13-6. Cozad remains in fourth. The Haymakers beat Curtis 12-0 last week.

Pius X of Lincoln rounds out the first five. After whipping Class A Omaha Cathedral 27-6, Coach Vince Aldrich's club climbed from seventh.

Ogallala whipped Alliance, a weak Class A team, 40-0 to go from eighth to sixth. York entered the chart at seventh with a 19-12 win over Seward. Seward was spilt to 10th and stays in the Top Ten because of tough competition—York and Crete both had trouble with the Bluejays.

Omaha Holy Name is eighth this week after being third in the first list. The Ramblers ran afoul of Fort Dodge, Ia., 25-18. Some of the luster of their earlier wins disappeared as their victims failed to sparkle last week.

Holdrege lost to Kearney, a rated Class A team, 19-14 and hung on in ninth spot. Plainview, tenth last week, was displaced.

Contenders for the Class B Top Ten are Plainview, Wayne, Cen-

Class C

West Point has scored 122 points in three games—an average of over 40 per outing—and leads the Class C pack. The Cadets of Coach Duane Cox were ninth in The Star's final 1955 chart, and second last week.

The big change in the Class C list was the dropping of Deshler from first to tenth. Seward Concordia did the honors, upsetting Deshler 26-13 after Deshler had surprised Class B Hebron, 21-20.

Four new teams entered the Class C Top Ten. They are Grant (second), Concordia (fourth), Arcadia (fifth) and Alma (seventh). Grant was the 1955 Class C champion.

In a mass overhauling, Grant took over by beating Trenton 31-13. Trenton had previously bounced tough Cambridge.

Scotia jumped from sixth to third by whipping Comstock 40-0 to remain unbeaten and unscored upon. Concordia's victory put that club in the list at fourth. Concordia was unranked last week, having played only one game.

Arcadia, unscored upon in 1955, is up to its old tricks again this year and climbs into the list at fifth. The most recent Arcadia win was a 20-0 decision over Sargent. Creighton climbed from seventh to sixth. Alma came in at seventh. Oshkosh climbed from ninth to eighth and St. Paul went from tenth to ninth in the chart.

Look for more changes as these clubs play more games. Bertrand, Hastings St. Cecilia, Lyons and Gibbon were dropped from the list after being rated last week and then suffering embarrassments.

Bertrand (third) was pressed to beat West Kearney, 7-0. West Kearney previously was walloped 40-0 by Alma, which in turn had been held to a tie by Beaver City. St. Cecilia was tied by weak Shelton. Lyons was tied by a middling Scribner team and Gibbon lost to Loup City, 12-6.

Several contenders are still in the running for Top Ten honors in Class C with Gibbon, Trenton, Cambridge, Beaver City, and Louisville among those due for a good look.

Yanks Hold Bat Average Over Brooks

NEW YORK (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers nearly match the New York Yankees in home-run power, but when it comes to batting average, the Yankees will carry a decided edge over the National League champions into the World Series.

Mickey Mantle, with 52, and Yogi Berra, with 30, paced the American League club to a record 190 home runs this year. Brooklyn had 179, five of them coming in the final day's "clutch" game.

A comparison of the clubs, position by position, gives the Yankees a 5-3 advantage in batting. Here's how the players who figure to see the most series' action stack up:

FIRST BASE — Bill Skowron, Yanks, and Gil Hodges, Dodgers, about even. Skowron hit .308 to Hodges' .265, but Hodges hit more home runs and fields better.

SECOND BASE — Junior Gilliam was the only Dodger to hit .300, and as a fielder with a wider range, would seem to rate an edge over the Yankees' Billy Martin. However, Martin has shown he is at his best when the chips are down.

Carries Years Lightly
SHORTSTOP — Gil McDougald of the Yankees outfit Captain Pee Wee Reese of the Dodgers, .311 to .257, and performed brilliantly in the field. Reese, however, carries his 37 years lightly.

THIRD BASE — Jackie Robinson, Dodgers, is a great "clutch" player, and rates an edge over the Yankees' Andy Carey, who hit only .236 this year and was erratic in the field. Jackie averaged .275.

LEFT FIELD — The Yankees' Enos Slaughter over the Dodgers' Sandy Amoros. Slaughter, at 40, the better fielder, and still running.

CENTER FIELD — Mickey Mantle over the Dodgers' Duke Snider. Mickey won his league's and the majors' batting Triple Crown, and has the better arm.

RIGHT FIELD — Carl Furillo hit nearly 50 points better than the Yankees' Hank Bauer. Both have power, and are fine defensively.

CATCHERS — The edge goes to the Yanks' Yogi Berra with his .298 average and 30 home runs. The Dodgers' Roy Campanella, with an injured hand, hit only .219, far below his usual performance.

St. John's University of Brooklyn had two unbeaten freshmen teams in 1956. The basketball team won all 21 games while the cross-country team won all six meets.

Dartmouth halfback Lou Rovero gained 20 yards in five carries as a sophomore but in 1955 he led the Big Green in ground gaining with 421 yards on 91 attempts.

Sal May Not Pitch 1st Game

BROOKLYN (AP) — Sal (The Magnificent) Maglie had the miseries Monday, leaving wide open the question of who will be Brooklyn's pitcher against the New York Yankees and left-hander Whitey Ford in Wednesday's World Series opener at Ebbets Field.

The Dodgers, hungry for some relaxation after the frantic finish to the National League pennant race, had the day off. But when Maglie showed up with the rest to pick up his ticket allotment, he admitted to an upset stomach and reported his shoulder "a bit stiff."

That confirmed Manager Walt Alton's worry over the 33-year-old right-hander, who proved the Big Guy in the stretch run. The Dodger skipper, given little chance to enjoy his second consecutive pennant, has doubted whether Sal could get the job done after only three days rest.

"Maglie's the logical choice," said Alton, "but he may need more rest. I know he pitched that no-hitter (last Tuesday) with only three days rest, but how can you be sure he can come back again?"

Sal, who has been coming back all season, figured the stiffness might work out of his shoulder in a pre-game warmup, and Alton followed the lead.

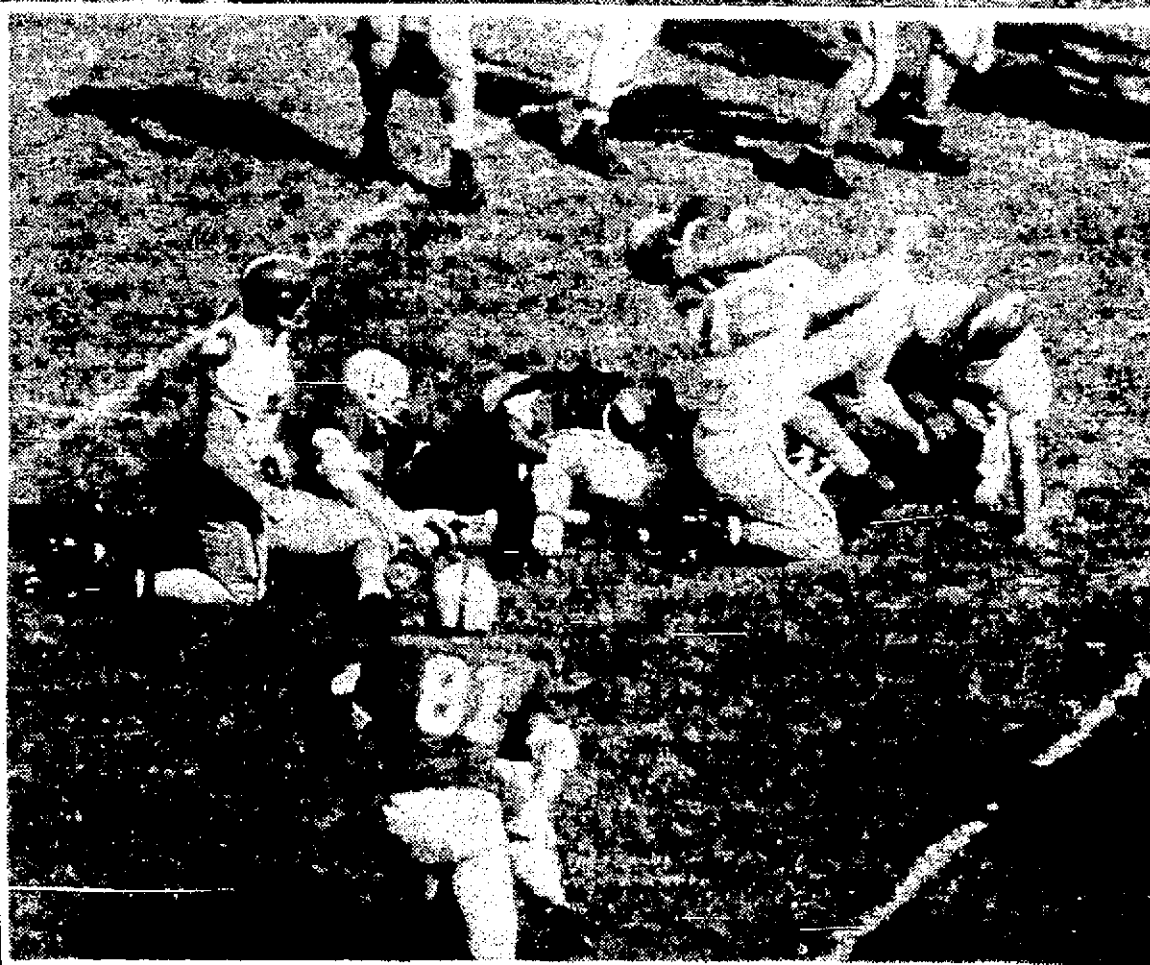

"I won't know who starts for us until just before game time," he said. "And if it isn't Maglie, it might be Carl Erskine, or Roger Craig, or maybe even Clem Labine. I just don't know."

While the hectic closing to the National League race left Alton with a weary pitching staff, Yankee Manager Casey Stengel had no such worries, having clinched the American League flag two weeks ago.

"It's Ford, all right," said Case as his Yanks worked out at the Stadium Monday. "Yeah, yeah, I know. They say those guys (the Dodgers) have a picnic with left-handers over there (in Brooklyn's handball yard). But I can't afford to wait till we get over here, so I gotta go with my best and my best is Ford."

Ford, 28, hasn't worked since last Wednesday, when he lost his shot for a 20th victory at Baltimore. That gives him a full week's rest going into the opening game, scheduled for 1 p.m., CST in predicted cool and clear weather.

Whitey, however, hasn't won yet in Ebbets Field, although his 3-1 World Series record includes two of the Yankees' three victories over the Brooks last year. In his only start at Ebbets, Whitey lasted just one inning, giving three hits and three runs in the fourth game of the 1955 classic.

Husker FB McCashland To Play Pivot Against IS

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

Dick McCashland, sophomore fullback from Geneva, will be at center on the University of Nebraska alternate team Saturday when the Cornhuskers launch Big Seven play against Iowa State at Memorial Stadium.

Coach Pete Elliott and his aides announced the switch Monday. McCashland will step into the spot vacated by Veteran Max Kitzelman who suffered a shoulder strain against Ohio State.

Elliott said that Kitzelman "probably won't play" this week and moved McCashland to center "because of his linebacking experience."

It will be the 198-pound soph's first game at the pivot spot, but Elliott said that he had practiced the role several times in drills this fall.

Leo George, left halfback on the alternate club, will take over McCashland's fullback job, a position that he held earlier this fall and in spring drills.

The remainder of the varsity squad got in some good scrimmage jicks against Gene Stauber's frosh club.

Praise For Murphy

Dillard Ready

Bennie Dillard, sophomore speedster from Mt. Pleasant, Tex., is expected to be ready for the Iowa State game.

Elliott said Monday that Dillard "will try to play this week."

Light Sick List

With the exception of Kitzelman, the Huskers escaped the Ohio State game without any serious injuries.

Guard LaVerne Torczon received a sprained ankle, while Halfbacks Larry Naviaux and George suffered charley horses. All three will be ready for the Cyclones.

Iowa State 'Powerful'

Husker Assistant Don Scarborough, who scouted Iowa State at Northwestern, reported Monday that the Cyclones have "a powerful team."

"They (Iowa State) fumbled many times and five were recovered," by Northwestern," Scarborough said. "That's what killed them."

Elliott said that the Cyclones made 131 yards in the last quarter and called it "an amazing job."

"Iowa State has good speed and is a good last-quarter team," he said.

Crete is one of the few aforementioned early standouts. The Cardinals, in moving down Nebraska City, showed enough "stuff" to compete with some of the larger Class A schools.

Crete plays a rugged schedule and will be hard to dislodge from the top spot unless upset by one of its few weaker opponents. Dav-

Here's How Ohio State's Line Co-Operated To Stall Nebraska Huskers

same time Ohio State's other guard Aurelis Thomas (64) moves into gap. The second shot (center) shows Brown hitting the line as Murphy occupies Parker. Thomas (his leg

as Thomas brings Brown to earth after a two-yard gain. Murphy and Parker are still at it. Moral: You can block an All American, but look out for somebody else. (Star Photos.)

West Point To Top In Class C Ratings As Deshler Falls; Crete Still B Leader

By RON GIBSON
Star Sports Staff Writer

West Point is the new Class C leader in The Star's high school football ratings as Seward Concordia tumbled last week's leader, Deshler, from the pinnacle.

West Point, second behind Deshler last week, thrashed Wisner 34-0 and took command as Concordia surprised Deshler 26-13.

Crete cemented its Class B leadership with an impressive 33-0 win over Nebraska City a Class A team. There were few changes in the Class B chart—York is the only new team in the ratings—but the Class C list underwent a major overhauling.

After three weeks of play there are few standouts in Classes B and kept the Cards out of the top perch in The Star's ratings.

Coach Henry Nissen's Stanton team, kingpin of the western half of the Husker League, is rated second. This is a jump of three places from last week's fifth spot. Stanton belted Pilger 40-7. Stanton hasn't been pressed yet.

Bellevue, second last week, is now third. The Chieftains gave Omaha Westside—a good Class A team—a battle before bowing 13-6. Cozad remains in fourth. The Haymakers beat Curtis 12-0 last week.

Plus X of Lincoln rounds out the first five. After whipping Class A Omaha Cathedral 27-6, Coach Vince Aldrich's club climbed from seventh.

Ogallala whipped Alliance, a weak Class A team, 40-0 to go from eighth to sixth. York entered the chart at seventh with a 19-12 win over Seward. Seward was spilled to 10th and stays in the Top Ten because of tough competition—York and Crete both had trouble with the Bluejays.

Omaha Holy Name is eighth this week after being third in the first list. The Ramblers ran afoul of Fort Dodge, Ia., 25-18. Some of the luster of their earlier wins disappeared as their victims failed to sparkle last week.

Holdrege lost to Kearney, a rated Class A team, 19-14 and hung on in ninth spot. Plainview, tenth last week, was displaced.

Contenders for the Class B Top Ten are Plainview, Wayne, Central City, Tecumseh, Chadron, Schuyler, Valentine and Minatare.

Class C

West Point has scored 122 points in three games—an average of over 40 per outing—and leads the Class C pack. The Cadets of Coach Duane Cox were ninth in The Star's final 1955 chart, and second last week.

The big change in the Class C list was the dropping of Deshler from first to tenth. Seward Concordia did the honors, upsetting Deshler 26-13 after Deshler had surprised Class B Hebron, 21-20.

Four new teams entered the Class C Top Ten. They are Grant (second), Concordia (fourth), Arcadia (fifth) and Alma (seventh). Grant was the 1955 Class C champion.

In a mass overhauling, Grant took over by beating Trenton 13-13. Trenton had previously bounced tough Cambridge.

Scotia jumped from sixth to third by whipping Comstock 40-0 to remain unbeaten and unscored upon. Concordia's victory put that club in the list at fourth. Concordia was unranked last week, having played only one game.

Arcadia, unscored upon in 1955, is up to its old tricks again this year and climbs into the list at fifth. The most recent Arcadia win was a 20-0 decision over Sargent.

Creighton climbed from seventh to sixth. Alma came in at seventh. Oskosh climbed from ninth to eighth and St. Paul went from tenth to ninth in the chart.

Look for more changes as these clubs play more games. Bertrand, Hastings St. Cecilia, Lyons and Gibson were dropped from the list after being rated last week and then suffering embarrassments.

Bertrand (third) was pressed to beat West Kearney, 7-0. West Kearney previously was walloped 40-0 by Alma, which in turn had been held to a tie by Beaver City. St. Cecilia was tied by weak Shelton, Lyons was tied by a middling Scribner team and Gibson lost to Loup City, 12-6.

Several contenders are still in the running for Top Ten honors in Class C with Gibson, Trenton, Cambridge, Beaver City, and Louisville among those due for a good look.

MAGLIE

Sal May Not Pitch 1st Game

BROOKLYN (AP) — Sal (The Magnificent) Maglie had the miseries Monday, leaving wide open the question of who will be Brooklyn's pitcher against the New York Yankees and left-hander Whitey Ford in Wednesday's World Series opener at Ebbets Field.

The Dodgers, hungry for some relaxation after the frantic finish to the National League pennant race, had the day off. But when Maglie showed up with the rest to pick up his ticket allotment, he admitted to an upset stomach and reported his shoulder "a bit stiff."

That confirmed Manager Walt Alton's worry over the 39-year-old righthander, who proved the Big Guy in the stretch run. The Dodger skipper, given little chance to enjoy his second consecutive pennant, has doubted whether Sal could get the job done after only three days rest.

"Maglie's the logical choice," said Alton, "but he may need more rest. I know he pitched that no-hitter (last Tuesday) with only

Yanks Hold Bat Average Over Brooks

NEW YORK (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers nearly match the New York Yankees in home-run power, but when it comes to batting average, the Yankees will carry a decided edge over the National League champions into the World Series.

Mickey Mantle, with 52, and Yogi Berra, with 30, paced the American League club to a record 190 home runs this year. Brooklyn had 179, five of them coming in the final day's "clutch" game.

A comparison of the clubs, position by position, gives the Yankees a 5-3 advantage in batting. Here's how the players who figure to see the most series' action stack up:

FIRST BASE — Bill Skowron, Yanks, and Gil Hodges, Dodgers, about even. Skowron hit .308 to Hodges' .265, but Hodges hit more home runs and fields better.

SECOND BASE — Junior Gilliam was the only Dodger to hit .300, and as a fielder with a wider range, would seem to rate an edge over the Yankees' Billy Martin. However, Martin has shown he is at his best when the chips are down.

Carries Years Lightly

SHORTSTOP — Gil McDougald of the Yankees outthrew Captain Pee Wee Reese of the Dodgers, .311 to .257, and performed brilliantly in the field. Reese, however, carries his 37 years lightly.

THIRD BASE — Jackie Robinson, Dodgers, is a great "clutch" player, and rates an edge over the Yankees' Andy Carey, who hit only .236 this year and was erratic in the field. Jackie averaged .275.

LEFT FIELD — The Yankees' Enos Slaughter over the Dodgers' Sandy Amoros. Slaughter, at 40, the better fielder, and still running.

CENTER FIELD — Mickey Mantle over the Dodgers' Duke Snider. Mickey won his league's and the majors' batting Triple Crown, and has the better arm.

RIGHT FIELD — Carl Furillo hit nearly 50 points better than the Yankees' Hank Bauer. Both have power, and are fine defensively.

Probable Starters

BROOKLYN (AP) — Here are the probable lineups for the opening game of the World Series at Ebbets Field Wednesday:

YANKS

Bauer, rf (.241)
Slaughter, lf (.281)
Mantle, cf (.353)
Berra, c (.298)
Skowron, 1b (.308)
McDougald, ss (.311)
Carey, 2b (.236)
Martin, 3b (.264)
Ford, p (19-6)

DODGERS

Gilliam, lf (.300)
Reese, ss (.257)
Snider, cf (.292)
Robinson, 3b (.275)
Hodges, 1b (.265)
Furillo, rf (.289)
Campanella, c (.219)
Neal, 2b (.287)
Maglie, (13-5) or Labine, p (10-6)

three days' rest, but how can you be sure he can come back again?"

Sal, who has been coming back all season, figured the stiffness might work out of his shoulder in a pre-game warmup, and Alton followed the lead.

"I won't know who starts for us until just before game time," he said. "And if it isn't Maglie, it might be Carl Erskine, or Roger Craig, or maybe even Clem Labine. I just don't know."

They say those guys (the Dodgers) have a picnic with left-handers over there (in Brooklyn's) handbox ball-yard. But I can't afford to wait till we get over here, so I gotta go with my best and my best is Ford."

Ford, 28, hasn't worked since last Wednesday, when he lost his shot for a 20th victory at Baltimore. That gives him a full week's rest going into the opening game, scheduled for 1 p.m., CST in predicted cool and clear weather.

Whitey, however, hasn't won yet in Ebbets Field, although his 3-1 World Series record includes two of the Yankees' three victories over the Brooks last year. In his only start at Ebbets, Whitey lasted just one inning, giving three hits and three runs in the fourth game of the 1953 classic.

Only Homer Floyd, sophomore Kansas back, was able to maintain his leadership in the Big Seven Conference football statistics as the teams completed their second big week of action.

Floyd stayed on top as the leading ground gainer with 25 carries for 161 yards at an average of 6.4. Even so, he dipped from his 9.4 average. Bill Hawkins from Nebraska stayed in the No. 2 spot with 15 attempts for 143 yards, an average of 9.5. Nebraska's Larry Naviaux has 112 yards on 11 runs.

MURPHY

Promoter Novak Makes 'Rassling' Debut Tonight

Lincoln's new wrestling promoter, ex-Husker Footballer Tom Novak, makes his debut at the Fairgrounds Arena Tuesday night.

Novak's first show will feature a tag team match between the Russians (Boris and Nicoli Volkov) and the team of Vern Gagne and Bill Melby, both longtime Lincoln favorites.

The main event will be a 60-minute affair.

In preliminary action, Angelo Poffo and newcomer Jack Allen of Madison, Wisconsin, are slated for a 30-minute match.

Novak had planned to have ex-Husker Mike DiBiase for his kick-off show, but Iron Mike couldn't make arrangements to be here. Instead, Don Pollock and Emil Duke of Omaha will open the program at 8:30 in the first match.

Sam Vacanti, former Nebraska and professional football player, will police the action in the ring.

Terp Quarterback Goes—Unhappily

BALTIMORE (AP)—Frank Tamburello, senior football quarterback for the University of Maryland, went into the Army Monday still fighting his induction.

He carried his appeal to a Federal Court, asking it to release him on the claim his induction was "arbitrary, capricious and illegal."

Maryland's selective service appeals board voted Sept. 18, by 5-0 for his induction Monday. It had reviewed his case on orders of National Selective Service headquarters when Tamburello protested his local draft board's order to report Aug. 6.

Tamburello went back to National Selective Service headquarters after his appeal was rejected and said it would not interfere.

St. John's University of Brooklyn had two unbeaten freshmen teams in 1956. The basketball team won all 21 games while the cross-country team won all six meets.

Dartmouth halfback Lou Rovero gained 20 yards in five carries as a sophomore but in 1955 he led the Big Green in ground gaining with 421 yards on 91 attempts.

Irish May Use Single Wing To Utilize Hornung's Talent

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Notre Dame has been considering a single-wing offense to utilize the full potential of quarterback Paul Hornung, Coach Terry Brennan said Monday.

Brennan, speaking before the Chicago American Quarterback Club, said there had not been enough time in the practice period to teach the single wing this fall.

"We definitely were considering it for more utilization of Hornung," he added. "But we can't take the time to teach it until we thoroughly learn what we've already got (the split T)."

In answer to questions, Brennan made these other observations:

"As for what a team thinks about one of its players getting most of the publicity, such as Hornung, as I can say is that a team respects a player on what he can do.

"Won Up Front"

"The backs may get the headlines but the game is won up front, and that's our problem now—defense. Our defense, however, is not as bad as it appeared against Southern Methodist (the Irish lost their opener with SMU at Dallas 19-13, Sept. 22) I did a little bit at SMU.

"We'll never change our schedule at Notre Dame to get easy games. The only way to be the best is play the best—that has been, and will continue to be, our theory.

"I certainly don't think Indiana (Notre Dame's opponent Saturday) is a 27-0 loser to Iowa last week) is a soft touch. It is a big ball club, strong and with a world of potential. Possibly what hurt them was Iowa's use of the balanced line for the first time. An opener always is tough to prepare for.

Are Not Scared

"We have a lot of respect for Michigan State and Oklahoma (the Irish will meet them on successive Saturdays) but we aren't scared of them. Our scouts are on them now."

Ray Eliot, coach of Illinois' fighting Illini, who scored four times within 6½ minutes of the third period to trim California 32-20, was asked what he said to the boys between halves of the game California led at that point 20-0.

"We just had a little chat," Eliot chuckled. "Then I said: 'It's time to get back out there, girls.'"

Big Ten Commissioner K. L. Wilson predicted that the conference football attendance record of a 55,000 average per game would be broken this fall.

Sooners Still Tops In College Ranks

Spartans, Georgia Tech Swap Places In 2nd Poll

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press

Oklahoma, Michigan State and Georgia Tech are the nation's top three football teams in the opinions of sports writers and broadcasters. Then, with their minds on the World Series, they're apparently paraphrasing an old baseball question and asking: Who's in fourth?

Although last weekend's games ran generally according to form, the second weekly Associated Press ranking poll resulted in another big reshuffling of the top 10 teams. Eight of last week's first 10 retained their places in the upper group, but except for Oklahoma's No. 1 ranking, none held the same spot.

Oklahoma received 60 first-place votes out of 97 ballots cast, 20 more for second place and polled 283 points on the usual basis of 10 for first, 9 for second, etc. As usual the balloting dropped off a bit during the excitement over the end of the baseball season.

Michigan State, an impressive winner over Stanford in its seasonal debut moved ahead of Georgia Tech into second place with 17 firsts and 773 points to Tech's 5 and 662.

Oklahoma, the top choice in the AP preseason poll, opened its season with a 36-0 victory over North Carolina while Michigan State whipped Stanford 21-7. Meanwhile Georgia Tech chalked up its second close one of the season, beating Southern Methodist, early conqueror of Notre Dame, by a 9-7 count.

After these three, the writers and broadcasters participating in the AP poll indicated a lot of doubt as to how the teams should be rated. On the point scores they came out in this order: Ohio State, Michigan, Mississippi, Pittsburgh, Texas Christian University and Southern California.

The strong opening performances of the Big 10 teams apparently made a big impression. Ohio State moved up from eighth place and Michigan from 13th. Mississippi's smashing victory over Kentucky boosted the Rebels from ninth and Pitt climbed from 10th after stopping Syracuse. Tennessee wasn't even rated in the first 20 a week ago, but a lopsided victory over Auburn earned a ninth-place ranking.

Syracuse and Southern Methodist dropped into the second division to make room for these newcomers.

Ohio State was the only team in the first 10 which failed to receive even one vote for first place. And all the teams below the Buckeyes in the top 10 received votes for every position from first to 10th.

The result of the balloting points out a couple of next Saturday's games as naturals. Michigan State (No. 2) and Michigan (5) are due to settle their back-yard rivalry in Michigan's 101,000 seat stadium.

Ohio State clashes with Stanford at Columbus, Ohio, in a game that should provide a direct comparison of two Big 10 title contenders.

The top 10 teams with first place votes and won-loss records in parentheses (points based on 10 for first, 9 for second):

1. Oklahoma (4-0) (10) 881

4. Ohio State (11-0) 645

8. Tennessee (11) (1-0) 625
9. Southern Cal (1) (1-0) 605

THE SECOND TEN

18. (tie) Syracuse (1-1) 569

Before The Series

Robbie Plans To Play For Brooks In '57 Series, Too

NEW YORK (AP) — Jackie Robinson answered reports about his possible retirement after the World Series by saying he expected to play in the 1957 World Series, too.

"I think we will win again next year for two reasons," said the 38-year-old infielder. "First of all, we are going to have a lot of young guys who are going to be in there and be of tremendous help. They learned a lot watching us old guys battle this year."

"Then the old guys didn't do so badly either, did they? I guess all of us showed enough to indicate we had at least one more year left. We are going to have a helluva team next year."

The "Broadway Managers" already have named Clem Labine to pitch the opening game against the Yankees.

In giving out his odds for the Dodgers-Yankees series, the book maker said "the Yankees are 6-5 favorites in the opener with Whitey Ford pitching against Clem Labine." The Broadway Managers figure with Sal Maglie a little stiff and Don Newcombe not looking so good the last couple of games, Labine gets the start.

A Don Newcombe-Mickey Mantle feud is building up to add zest to the subway series.

Mantle, Triple Crown batting champion, recently said "if New-combe thinks he can throw his fast ball past me, he's got another think coming."

Told of this, big Newk said he's got Mantle's weakness—which is something most American League pitchers couldn't discover.

"Mantle has a weakness for a fast ball," said Newcombe. "I know where it is and he knows I know. If I get it where I want to, he's not going to hit it."

Ebbets Field Monday still looked like the site of a New Year's Eve party, the day after Peanut bags, newspapers, programs and all sorts of trash littered the stands, just like the jubilant customers left it when the Dodgers clinched the flag on Sunday.

It looked like everyone still was celebrating the victory.

Mantle, the big gun the Yankees had to do without mostly in last year's loss to the Dodgers, says he's ready to go all out against the Brooks.

"I feel all right," said the switcher Monday. "My leg will be just fine for the series. I know that."

You are the Boston College quarterback with your team trailing Miami, 13-0, and the ball on your own 47-yard line, second down and eight midway between the sidelines at the start of the fourth quarter.

You have dispensed with the huddle and are calling your plays by a series of numbers. As the players untangle from a previous play, the Miami captain, who is the right halfback, comes up to protest the placing of the ball, but the referee ignores him and signals the ball in play.

Your men have lined up quickly. Miami's defense is a basic 6-2-1 (six-linemen, two linebackers, two halfbacks, safety). Rate these plays 1, 2, 3 and 4.

Irish May Use Single Wing To Utilize Hornung's Talent

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO (AP) — Notre Dame has been considering a single-wing offense to utilize the full potential of quarterback Paul Hornung, Coach Terry Brennan said Monday.

Brennan, speaking before the Chicago American Quarterback Club, said there had not been enough time in the practice period to teach the single wing this fall.

"We definitely were considering it for more utilization of Hornung," he added. "But we can't take the time to teach it until we thoroughly learn what we've already got (the split T)."

In answer to questions, Brennan made these observations:

"As for what a team thinks about one of its players getting most of the publicity, such as Hornung, all I can say is that a team respects a player on what he can do.

"Won Up Front" — "The backs may get the headlines but the game is won up front, and that's our problem now—defense. Our defense, however, is not as bad as it appeared against Southern Methodist the Irish lost their opener with SMU at Dallas 19-13, Sept. 22. I died a little bit at SMU.

"We'll never change our schedule at Notre Dame to get easy games. The only way to be the best is play the best—that has been, and will continue to be, our theory.

"I certainly don't think Indiana (Notre Dame's opponent Saturday) is a 27-0 loser to Iowa last week and a soft touch. It is a big ball club, strong and with a world of potential. Possibly what hurt them was Iowa's use of the balanced line for the first time. An opener always is tough to prepare for.

Are Not Scared — "We have a lot of respect for Michigan State and Oklahoma (the Irish will meet them on successive Saturdays) but we aren't scared of them. Our scouts are on them now."

Ray Eliot, coach of Illinois' fighting Illini, who scored four times within 6½ minutes of the third period to trim California 32-20, was asked what he said to the boys between halves of the game. California led at that point 20-0.

"We just had a little chat," Eliot chuckled. "Then I said: 'It's time to get back out there, girls.'"

Big Ten Commissioner K. L. Wilson predicted that the conference football attendance record of a 55,000 average per game would be broken this fall.

Sooners Still Tops In College Ranks

Spartans, Georgia Tech Swap Places In 2nd Poll

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press

Oklahoma, Michigan State and Georgia Tech are the nation's top three football teams in the opinions of sports writers and broadcasters. Then, with their minds on the World Series, they're apparently paraphrasing an old baseball question and asking: Who's in fourth?

Although last weekend's games ran generally according to form, the second weekly Associated Press ranking poll resulted in another big reshuffling of the top 10 teams. Eight of last week's first 10 retained their places in the upper group, but except for Oklahoma's No. 1 ranking, none held the same spot.

Oklahoma received 60 first-place votes out of 97 ballots cast, 20 more for second place and polled 883 points on the usual basis of 10 for first, 9 for second, etc. As usual the balloting dropped off a bit during the excitement over the end of the baseball season.

Michigan State, an impressive winner over Stanford in its seasonal debut, moved ahead of Georgia Tech into second place with 17 firsts and 773 points to Tech's 5 and 662.

Oklahoma, the top choice in the AF preseason poll, opened its season with a 36-0 victory over North Carolina while Michigan State

whipped Stanford 21-7. Meanwhile Georgia Tech chalked up its second close one of the season, beating Southern Methodist, early conqueror of Notre Dame, by a 9-7 count.

After these three, the writers and broadcasters participating in the AP poll indicated a lot of doubt as to how the teams should be rated. On the point scores they came out in this order: Ohio State, Michigan, Mississippi, Pittsburgh, Texas Christian, Tennessee and Southern California.

The strong opening performance of the Big 10 teams apparently made a big impression. Ohio State moved up from eighth place and Michigan from 13th. Mississippi's smashing victory over Kentucky boosted the Rebels from ninth and Pitt climbed from 10th after stopping Syracuse. Tennessee wasn't even rated in the first 20 a week ago, but a lopsided victory over Auburn earned a ninth-place ranking.

Syracuse and Southern Methodist dropped into the second division to make room for these newcomers.

Ohio State was the only team in the first 10 which failed to receive even one vote for first place. And all the teams below the Buckeyes in the top 10 received votes for every position from first to 10th.

The result of the balloting points out a couple of next Saturday's games as naturals. Michigan State (No. 2) and Michigan (5) are due to settle their back-yard rivalry in Michigan's 101,000 seat stadium. Ohio State clashes with Stanford at Columbus, Ohio, in a game that should provide a direct comparison of two Big 10 title contenders.

The top 10 teams with first-place votes and win-loss records in parentheses (points based on 10 for first, 9 for second):

1. Oklahoma (60) (1-0) 883
2. Michigan State (17) (1-0) 773
3. Georgia Tech (5) (2-0) 662
4. Ohio State (1-0) 457
5. Mississippi (1) (2-0) 420
6. Michigan (13) (2-0) 416
7. Tennessee (1) (2-0) 357
8. Texas Christian (1) (1-0) 290
9. Texas (1) (1-0) 281
10. Southern Calif. (1) (1-0) 262

THE SECOND TEN

11. Texas A&M (2-0) 110
12. Southern Methodist (1-1) 107
13. (tie) Illinois (1-0) 95
14. (tie) Miami, Fla. (1-0) 95

18. (tie) Syracuse (1-1) 29
19. Vanderbilt (2-0) 29
20. Iowa (1-0) 28
(Arkansas and Penn State each received one first-place vote.)

13 Major League Records Were Shattered During '56

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirteen leading records were broken and 10 tied during the 1956 major league baseball season.

Among the individual records—

New Tiger Owners Feel 'Confident'

By DAVE DILES
DETROIT (AP) — Eleven new owners Monday took control of the Detroit Tigers and expressed confidence the club soon will leave the American League second division, where it has been mired for six seasons, and become a title contender.

In an hour-long meeting that was anti-climactic to the actual sale of the Tigers in midsummer for a record-shattering price of $5,500,000, the new owners turned over $4,200,000 in cash. There was the transfer of more than 150 documents and a long session of paper signing.

Spokesmen for the new owners of what is considered one of baseball's best franchises immediately put wheels in motion to hire a field manager, trade for relief pitching and add bench strength.

To Ratify Appointment
They scheduled the first official meeting of the new board of directors later in the afternoon to ratify Spike Briggs' appointment to the dual job as vice president in charge of operations and general manager.

John McHale, farm director, becomes director of player personnel under the reorganization and Jim Campbell, who has been assistant farm director, probably will move up as farm director.

Ten of the 11 new owners were present for Monday's ceremonies. Bing Crosby, who also owns stock in the Pittsburgh Pirates, was unable to attend.

The group smiled and joked through more than an hour-long session before newsmen and cameramen. All were optimistic about the future of the Tigers, who have not won a pennant since 1945 and who have been out of the first division ever since a second-place finish in 1950.

Out of Ownership
Briggs, whose family passed out of Tiger baseball ownership for the first time in 36 years, added: "We are very confident about the future. We feel we have an excellent chance to bring Detroit back to where it belongs in the baseball picture."

He said he would do some trade-talking during the World Series. The manager to replace Bucky Harris, who resigned last week after two unsuccessful teams covering seven years with the Tigers, will be named after the series, Briggs added.

breakers were Pittsburgh's Dale Long, who hit a home run in eight consecutive games; Stan Musial of St. Louis, who reached a lifetime total of 1,086 extra-base hits and Jim Lemon of Washington, a strikeout victim 139 times.

Cincinnati tied the major league team standard of 221 home runs and the New York Yankees, by hitting 190 homers, bettered the American League mark of 182. The Yanks' four-bagger production helped the junior circuit toward a new mark of 1,075 topping the previous high of 973 set in 1950.

Individual Records Broken
Most home runs, consecutive games—8 by Dale Long, Pittsburgh, NL (broke major league record of 6 held by five players.)

Most times struck out, season—139 by Jim Lemon, Washington AL (broke major league record of 134 set by Vince DiMaggio, Boston, NL in 1938.)

Most times hit by pitch, season—23 by Minnie Minoso, Chicago, AL (broke major league record of 21 set by Jake Stahl, Boston and New York AL in 1908 and tied by Bucky Harris, Washington AL in 1920.)

Most home runs yielded, pitcher, season—46 by Robin Roberts, Philadelphia, NL (broke major league record of 41 set by Roberts in 1955.)

Most consecutive games played since start of major league career—424 by Ernie Banks, Chicago, NL (broke major league record of 394 set by Al Simmons, Philadelphia, AL.)

Podres Felt 'Great'

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—Johnny Podres, former Brooklyn pitcher now pulling a hitch in Uncle Sam's Navy, said Monday that when the Dodgers nailed the National League pennant Sunday he "felt great all over—just like I was a part of the club."

"It sure was great to see the guys come back when they were a game down and only three games to play," Podres said. "When the chips were down they came through."

"They battled themselves right back into the race and won it."

Yankees Unconcerned About Series Games

NEW YORK (AP) — If the New York Yankees were concerned over Wednesday's World Series opener against Brooklyn, or geared to reclaim the world championship from the Dodgers with a vengeance, they didn't show it in their workout Monday.

Mickey Mantle, bothered of late by a minor groin injury, frisked around at shortstop, after gathering in one or two flies at his accustomed center-field spot.

Whitey Ford, the Yankees' opening game pitcher, sunned himself in the outfield talking about Charlie Beamon, the Baltimore rookie who beat Whitey in his bid for a 20th victory last Wednesday.

And Manager Casey Stengel sat in the dugout, discussing the American League pennant race he had sewed up in July and finally nailed two weeks ago.

Talked About Fishing
Not much of the talk was about the series or the Dodgers. Left-hander Tommy Byrne, who with Ford grabbed the three games the Yankees managed to win from the Dodgers a year ago, talked about fishing. Outfielder Hank Bauer kept his eye on the scrubs in the batting cage, making sure they didn't stay too long. "Ten hits and out, that's all."

What series conversation there was touched the pinched confines of Ebbets Field, the Brooklyn ballpark where the first two games of the series will be played, and Sal Maglie, the comeback veteran who may open for the Dodgers.

Ford said he was surprised when Stengel sent him to Ebbets Field Sunday along with Pitching Coach Jim Turner to give the Brooks a look as they won the National League pennant on the final day.

"I didn't learn anything I didn't already know," said Ford, whose lone defeat in three series decisions was at Ebbets Field in 1953. "It's not too easy for a lefthander, not with that close left-field fence and the Dodgers' right-handed hitters. But I don't think it's any tougher than Fenway Park up in Boston. And I've won there."

Stengel, who hinted he might start Jerry Coleman at second base if Billy Martin's bad back isn't any better by Wednesday, remembered that the Yankees had seen Maglie only once or twice.

Feller Named Head Of Player Group

NEW YORK (INS) — Major league player representatives formed an official organization Monday and elected Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians as their first president.

Legal representative J. Norman Lewis said the new major league players association does not in any sense represent the start of a players' "Union" but merely "formalizes" their previous organization.

Other officers include Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, vice president; Gerry Coleman of the New York Yankees, secretary, and Ted Kluszewski, Cincinnati, and Eddie Yost, Washington, members of the executive committee along with Feller, Coleman and Musial.

Lewis said the representatives discussed and probably would approve at their December meeting a proposal to allow players to accept voluntarily, with the approval of commissioner Ford Frick, a salary cut greater than the 25 per cent limitation imposed by baseball law.

D.C. Supt. To Tell Whether Officials' Children 'Integrated'

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators requested Monday — and were promised — an accounting of how many government officials in Washington send their children to segregated or racially mixed schools here.

The request was made by the House Subcommittee on the the fact that two of his children go to a private school.

The subcommittee Monday went into the question of whether the school situation in Washington has become "a mess" as Gerber called it.

Gerber told Corning: "Somebody told me you were going to retire, that you were sick of this mess and were going to get out."

headed by Rep. James C. Davis, which has been taking testimony on the effects of integration of white and Negro children in the District of Columbia schools.

Dr. Hobart M. Corning, superintendent of schools, said he would supply the list. It is to cover the children and grandchildren of President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon, Supreme Court justices, Cabinet members, White House aides, senators, House members and District of Columbia commissioners.

Segregation Responsible

Corning testified the former segregated system was largely responsible for differences in achievement levels of Negro and white students.

There were "differences in procedure" in the former white and Negro divisions, Corning said, and in large part this was "responsible for the differences in achievement."

Asked whether Negro teachers were as capable as white teachers, Corning said both "had the same qualifications."

Kefauver And Rain Hit Drought-Stricken Texas; Estes Blast GOP Ag Policy

WACO, Tex. (INS) — Estes Kefauver and rain came to the drought-stricken heart of Texas Monday and the Democratic vice-presidential candidate took "full credit" for the downpour.

The Tennessee senator drove from Dallas to Waco through more rain than the parched ranching area had seen since last May.

"I brought the rain," he jovially told rallies in five small towns while enroute to Waco. "I want to take full credit for the rain that we have."

At the "Heart O' Texas Fair" in Waco, Kefauver had a prepared speech charging that the Eisenhower administration won't even talk about the dry weather that has made "disaster areas" out of much of Texas, let alone do anything about it.

1-Week Tour

Kefauver emphasized the plight of rain-starved Texas ranchers and farmers after flying to Dallas from Washington to begin a one-week campaign tour of the west and southwest.

He told well-wishers at Dallas, which had almost an inch of rain just before his arrival, that he would be glad to talk about something else if Waco could end its dry spell, too. His motor caravan drove through a slight sprinkle on the outskirts of Waco, but that was the best the city could get prior to speech time.

Elsewhere on the road, there were alternating sunshine and showers as Kefauver spoke in five towns with populations ranging from Milford's 690 to Waxahachie's 15,000.

He spoke from soundtrucks to applauding crowds of hundreds in courthouse squares and from a sidewalk to 50 or 60 straw-hatted farmers and townsfolk at Milford.

Along the way, Kefauver's car screeched to a halt in Forrester, a town of half a dozen visible buildings, including a grocery store with three men standing outside.

The Tennessee banded out of his car, shook the three men's hands, got back in and zoomed off again, confusing a police escort which had driven ahead, come back and almost smashed into two cars while U-turning to rejoin the procession.

With Kefauver was Senate majority leader Lyndon B. Johnson, one of the Texas Democratic officials trying to swing the state behind the Stevenson-Kefauver ticket. Texas went for the Eisenhower-Nixon slate in 1952.

At each town, Johnson interrupted Kefauver's speech to ask listeners to put campaign contributions into buckets that little girls carried through the crowd. Johnson said the money was needed "to keep the plane going" that Kefauver came in.

Kefauver resumed after one interruption by saying, laughingly: "Coins make a lot of noise. If you'd put folding money in the buckets, it wouldn't interrupt my speech quite as much."

The senator's wife, Nancy, kissed him goodbye at the airport. She stayed home with their four children, as she did during her husband's first 16-day swing, which ended Saturday night.

Kefauver and his wife both were sporting a new version of the hole-in-shoe lapel pin which symbolizes

Adlai Stevenson, his presidential running-mate. The new one is an old shoe super-imposed on a con-skin cap, Kefauver's old trademark.

The Democratic candidate's Waco speech suggested that the "Eisenhower-Benson administration" had been so forgetful of farmers' needs that the GOP should abandon the elephant, which is supposed to have a memory, as its symbol, and adopt the ostrich instead.

Kefauver told his Waco audience:

"Your prolonged drought has been in a critical stage for at least two or three years. And yet, the Republican administration and (Agriculture Secretary) Ezra Benson still refuse to take any responsibility in this matter... we can't blame them for the lack of rain; we can and do blame them for not doing anything about it."

He said the widespread dry spell "is a national problem and the nation should be concerned" but "this republican administration has tried to keep it a secret."

Nixon Charges Demos Had Urged 'Write-Off' For Reds

ENROUTE WITH NIXON (INS) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon criticized Adlai E. Stevenson on two new counts, Monday night and charged that past Democratic administration advisers had urged the United States to "write off" the Iron Curtain countries.

His charges highlighted a whirlwind day of political campaigning which carried the 40-year-old vice president from Florida to the Great Lakes and New England.

Nixon said that Stevenson, and former President Harry S. Truman, had "deserted their party" by following new rather than the traditional principles of the Democratic party.

And he said that the Democratic presidential nominee had "made a case" for electing a GOP Congress when he criticized the Eisenhower administration's performance on school aid legislation.

'Character'

Nixon stuck to his charge that Stevenson had deserted his party's principles when questioned by a panel of Democrats and Republicans on a Milwaukee television program Monday night.

But he also reiterated that he thought Stevenson was a man of "character and integrity."

The vice president, replying to another question which brought up the fact that Stevenson is a "divorced man," called this out of bounds in a political campaign. He said a candidate's "personal life" should not become a "political issue."

Asked about Mr. Truman's re-

'Joe Smiths' Welcome Sign Disappears

A sign reading "Welcome Joe Smiths," recently erected in front of the Lancaster County Democratic headquarters at 1220 M, was missing Monday.

County Democratic Chairman A. Clifford Anderson of Lincoln said the sign was taken sometime Sunday evening.

Anderson said a lady who lives across the street told headquarters she saw two young men drive up and take the sign away.

Scottsbluff's Terry Carpenter made a move to nominate a fictitious "Joe Smith" for vice president at the Republican national convention. Some Democrats since have seized on the name as symbol for the common man.

"The sign may be gone," Anderson said, "but all the Joe Smiths are still welcome here."

Trucker Fined In Sale Of Weedy Feed Oats

A guilty finding on charges of selling feed oats containing noxious weed seed has been made against Ralph Kapke, Milford trucker.

Kapke was fined $20 and costs, according to the State Department of Agriculture and Inspection.

The department said the oats sold allegedly contained Canada thistle and field bindweed seed.

cent Milwaukee statement that he did not think Alger Hiss was a Communist spy. Nixon declared: "If anyone has the idea that the Hiss case... was a 'red herring'—that Hiss was not a spy—he is not reading history correctly."

'Traitor'

Nixon voluntarily included Stevenson in his criticism when a reporter at Milwaukee, Wis., asked him to clarify a prior charge that Mr. Truman had been a "traitor to the principles of the Democratic party."

He slapped at Stevenson on the education issue in an earlier news conference at Grand Rapids, Mich., where he also announced publicly that he is following a policy of not staying at hotels which practice discrimination.

Nixon found "evidence of what he insisted was complete harmony when he reached Wisconsin and was greeted by both Alexander Wiley and Joseph R. McCarthy, the state's GOP senators and political enemies."

The vice president told reporters that Wiley, who won renomination despite opposition from the regular GOP organization and McCarthy, is "very strong" and will win in November.

Nixon said he would be "more optimistic" than he is about other states if they were in as good condition as he found Wisconsin and Wiley.

Tribute

Nixon's surprise reference to Iron Curtain countries came when he paused to pay a brief tribute to a memorial to Gen. Thaddeus Kosciuszko, Polish leader who helped America in the revolutionary war. Nixon took note of the fact that Polish-American citizens were present and said: "There were many who advised the State Department in previous administrations, and who are no longer there, who urged that we write off the countries behind the Iron Curtain. Let me tell you that will never happen while Dwight Eisenhower is president."

Nixon said he has long had a policy of not stopping at hotels which discriminate against minorities.

Nixon thus accounted for a shift in plans at St. Petersburg which cancelled original plans to stop at one hotel over the weekend. His party stayed instead at two others.

Nixon Charges Demos Had Urged 'Write-Off' For Reds

ENROUTE WITH NIXON (INS) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon criticized Adlai E. Stevenson on two new counts, Monday night and charged that past Democratic administration advisers had urged the United States to "write off" the Iron Curtain countries.

His charges highlighted a whirlwind day of political campaigning which carried the 43-year-old vice president from Florida to the Great Lakes and New England.

Nixon said that Stevenson, and former President Harry S. Truman, had "deserted their party" by following new rather than the traditional principles of the Democratic party.

And he said that the Democratic presidential nominee had "made a case" for electing a GOP Congress when he criticized the Eisenhower administration's performance on school aid legislation.

'Character'

Nixon stuck to his charge that Stevenson had deserted his party's principles when questioned by a panel of Democrats and Republicans on a Milwaukee television program Monday night.

But he also reiterated that he thought Stevenson was a man of "character and integrity."

The vice president, replying to another question which brought up the fact that Stevenson is a "divorced man," called this out of bounds in a political campaign. He said a candidate's "personal life" should not become a "political issue."

Asked about Mr. Truman's recent Milwaukee statement that he did not think Alger Hiss was a Communist spy, Nixon declared: "If anyone has the idea that the Hiss case . . . was a 'red herring'—that Hiss was not a spy—he is not reading history correctly."

'Traitor'

Nixon voluntarily included Stevenson in his criticism when a reporter at Milwaukee, Wis., asked him to clarify a prior charge that Mr. Truman had been a "traitor to the principles of the Democratic party."

He slapped at Stevenson on the education issue in an earlier news conference at Grand Rapids, Mich., where he also announced publicly that he is following a policy of not staying at hotels which practice discrimination.

Nixon found "evidence of what he insisted was complete harmony when he reached Wisconsin and was greeted by both Alexander Wiley and Joseph R. McCarthy, the state's GOP senators and political enemies."

The vice president told reporters that Wiley, who won renomination despite opposition from the regular GOP organization and McCarthy, is "very strong" and will win in November.

Nixon said he would be "more optimistic" than he is about other states if they were in as good condition as he found Wisconsin and Wiley.

Tribute

Nixon's surprise reference to Iron Curtain countries came when he paused to pay a brief tribute at a memorial to Gen. Thaddeus Kosciuszko, Polish leader who helped America in the revolutionary war. Nixon took note of the fact that Polish-American citizens were present and said:

"There were many who advised the State Department in previous administrations, and who are no longer there, who urged that we write off the countries behind the Iron Curtain. Let me tell you that will never happen while Dwight Eisenhower is president."

Nixon said he has long had a policy of not stopping at hotels which discriminate against minorities.

Nixon thus accounted for a shift in plans at St. Petersburg which cancelled original plans to stop at one hotel over the weekend. His party stayed instead at two others.

'Joe Smiths' Welcome Sign Disappears

A sign reading "Welcome Joe Smiths," recently erected in front of the Lancaster County Democratic headquarters at 1220 M, was missing Monday.

County Democratic Chairman A. Clifford Anderson of Lincoln said the sign was taken sometime Sunday evening.

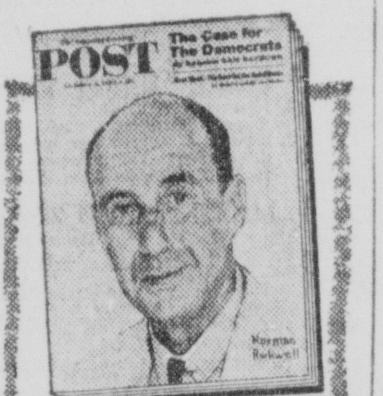

Anderson said a lady who lives across the street told headquarters she saw two young men drive up and take the sign away.

Scottsbluff's Terry Carpenter made a move to nominate a fictitious "Joe Smith" for vice president at the Republican national convention. Some Democrats since have seized on the name as symbol for the common man.

"The sign may be gone," Anderson said, "but all the Joe Smiths are still welcome here."

Asked about Mr. Truman's re-
